BANQUET TO CELEBRATE SIX-STORY BUILDING

Local Citizens and Bank Officials Meet Tonight For Dinner, Program

START of construction on the six-story bank and office building of the Glendale branch of the Security Trust & Savings Bank, at the northeast corner of Brand and Broadway, will be celebrated with a banquet at the Citizens' building tonight, officials of the Baker Iron Works, Los Angeles, acting as host to sixty-five local guests, including prominent business men of the city, officials of the branch and home office of the bank, the Chamber of Commerce and other institutions.

The Baker Iron Works is the company that was awarded the contract for the structural steel to be used in this $500,000 structure, which will be one of the most modern and beautiful buildings in the Southland.

Alfred F. Priest of Glendale is the architect who designed the structure. It is in Italian Renaissance and will include 114 offices in the five upper floors, the main floor and basement being given over to bank offices and vaults.

Master of Ceremonies
H. S. Hitchcock, vice president of the Baker Iron Works, will be master of ceremonies. Mayor Spencer Robinson is expected to deliver the address of welcome, to which M. A. Baker, vice president and general manager of the Baker Iron Works, will respond.

Mrs. John R. Case will render a vocal solo, "Dost Thou Know That Sweet Land," from the opera Mignon, by Thomas. Miss Eva Kurtz Christ at the piano.

Mattison B. Jones, prominent in all Glendale civic matters, will speak on "Glendale's Spirit of Progress," of which the new bank building is considered a fitting example.

Miss Eva Kurtz Christ will render a piano solo, "Aeolus," by Gernheim.

Spirit of Friendship
R. F. Kitterman, vice-president and manager of the Glendale branch of the Security Trust & Savings bank, will talk on the new institution, pointing to the spirit of friendship and co-operation existing between Los Angeles and Glendale.

This subject will be expanded by City Manager William H. Reeves.

Jesse E. Smith, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, will speak on "The Work of the Chamber in City Building."

E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, will close the banquet with a talk called "We Thank You."

A feature of the affair will be an illuminated replica of the new bank building, in miniature, as the centerpiece at the banquet table.

NEW PREMIER IS STRIKING SNAGS

Ex-Chancellor of Exchequer Refuses to Take Post in Government

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, May 24.—Premier Stanley Baldwin began to strike snags today in his task of reforming England's Tory cabinet. Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the exchequer, who was offered that post in the new government, sent word he could not accept, owing to personal business interests.

Austen Chamberlain is due from Paris this afternoon. He has been offered a post in the new government, but he probably will confer with Sir Robert Horne before giving a definite answer.

Another possibility is that Leopold Amery of the admiralty may be taken into the cabinet.

The Morning Post said Lord Robert Cecil, whose recent political activities have been in support of the League of Nations, had been offered the post of chancellor of the duchy of Lancaster. This is not an important portfolio but it gives the holder a voice in government affairs.

Sir Robert Horne conferred with Premier Baldwin during the morning. Later it was reported he had intimated willingness to join the government at some later date when his private business affairs will permit.

Headquarters of the Tory party admit Premier Baldwin is finding it most difficult to obtain a suitable man for chancellor of the exchequer.

Upton Sinclair Causes More to Join Strike Ranks

Upton Sinclair

Upton Sinclair, noted author and Socialist, was spirited away from a Free Speech meeting in Liberty Hall, Los Angeles, by a detail of police, headed by Police Chief Oakes. Later he was freed on bail. Last night he directed a meeting in Los Angeles, as the result of which more men joined the ranks of the strikers.

Radicals Congregate Today On San Pedro Streets; Dispersed by Police

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Following the discovery of dynamite bombs concealed in a can in the heart of the harbor district and the reported demonstrations by 150 asserted radicals before San Pedro newspaper offices last night police today took steps to prevent a renewed outbreak of L. W. W. activities in connection with the longshoremen's strike.

As a direct result of a meeting of strikers called and held by Upton Sinclair, writer and socialist leader, at Liberty hall, San Pedro, last night, 300 longshoremen failed to show up for work this morning, according to reports.

Singing "Red Flag Forever," and other radical songs, the radicals congregated at Sixth street in San Pedro early today, but were dispersed by the police.

Child's Disappearance Puzzles Authorities

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—The police department and sheriff's office were today confronted with the most mysterious child disappearance cases to be reported in months.

Thirteen-year-old Pearl Redman apparently dropped from sight after attending classes at the Miramonte school on Tuesday, according to the child's parents' report to the police.

Two little boys are reported missing from the same school and other children have been reported missing from the same neighborhood within the past few weeks. Police fear a child kidnapping gang is operating in the city.

Evening News Has Phone at Exposition

The Glendale Evening News will have direct wire connections between its office at 139 South Brand boulevard and the Glendale Industrial Exposition, five blocks away, the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company making the connection for The Evening News today.

Phone Glendale 132 and ask for The Evening News exposition booth if you desire any information.

Those desiring to call people should call the telephone company's pay station phone at the exposition booth, which also was installed today.

ESCAPE BLOCKED

SHANGHAI, May 24.—Lowering cliffs which rise abruptly 1,800 feet on three sides of the old temple in which they are imprisoned block the possibility of escape of the prisoners of the Suchoo bandits, according to a description of the latest hiding place to which they have been taken, contained in a diary kept by Lee C. Solomon of San Francisco, a portion of which reached friends here today. The Golden Gate "seems like a dream far away," he wrote.

SUES KLAN HEAD

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 24.—Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard and knight of the Ku Klux Klan, filed suit in first division circuit court here today against Joseph Simmons, founder of the Klan and head of the order of Kamela, asking $100,000 damages as a result of a telegram published in a local newspaper alleged to have been signed by Simmons, which charged Evans with "fee grabbing."

NINE DIE IN RUHR RIOTS AND MANY INJURED

Scores in Hospitals Result Of Outbreak; Germany's Officials Anxious

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service

BERLIN, May 24.—A red wave of communism today threatened to roll through the Ruhr as the result of French military occupation. Heavy fighting was reported from Gelsenkirchen and Dortmund, six persons being killed and seventy wounded in the former city.

Word was received from Dortmund this afternoon that thirty-five persons were in the hospital, many of them severely injured.

The total death list is believed to be about nine. News of the outbreak caused much anxiety to German officials.

Communists are in control of Gelsenkirchen, but the situation at Dortmund has calmed down.

Reign of Terror
Reds at Gelsenkirchen stormed all public buildings, applying the torch to those they could not hold. After seizing Gelsenkirchen they began a ruthless reign of terror. They were assisted by absence of police, the regular force having been disbanded by the French some weeks ago.

In order to handicap the firemen—who were acting as volunteer police—the reds began a widespread campaign of incendiarism, starting fires all over the town.

French troops, instead of aiding the German citizens, adopted an attitude of "benevolent neutrality."

Seize All Records
The determination of the reds to unloose chaos was shown by their conduct after occupying Gelsenkirchen police headquarters. They seized all the records and threw them into the street from the windows.

According to authoritative information this afternoon, danger of a general strike throughout the Ruhr is lessening. The rank and file of the German workers are anti-red.

Feverish activity was reported on the part of the communists at Bochum, but no word of fighting had been received from there.

Mystery Over Death Of U. S. Marine Officer

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Lieutenant Colonel Earl H. Ellis, a distinguished officer of the United States marine corps, has been "accidentally killed" in the Caroline islands under conditions which have led the United States government to quietly undertake a thorough investigation.

The Caroline islands, together with the Marshall islands form a great straggle group that sprawls across the Pacific for 2000 miles east of the Philippines and about 1000 miles south of Japan. They are controlled by the Japanese government, under a mandate secured in the peace settlement at Paris, and the Japanese government has discouraged tourist travel in them.

Colonel Ellis died on May 12, but no announcement of it has ever been made, either in Washington or in Tokyo, from whence the official report was made.

News of his death was communicated to Washington by the American charge d'affaires at Tokyo, who had received his information from the Japanese foreign office. Whether the cause of his death was reported or not, is not known as officials here today were obviously disinclined to discuss it. It was admitted, however, that an investigation is being made.

Harding Says Society In Difficult Period

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24.—Human society has never faced a more complex or difficult period than that through which it is now passing, President Harding declared today in addressing the American National Council, an organization to promote better citizenship.

The one fundamental for America to cling to, he said, was that written into the preamble of the constitution, and he advised an audience of prominent men and women "to get back to it."

MASS TURK TROOPS

ATHENS, May 24.—Fifty thousand Turkish troops have been concentrated in Thrace for action against the Greeks, according to a report received here today from Saloniki. The Greek premier denies the country is sending reinforcements to the Maritza river—the Greco-Turkish boundary in Thrace.

MAN SHOT TO DEATH NEAR CITY; SEEK SLAYER

Laborers' Camp in Canyon Scene of Murder; Booze Cause of Quarrel

COLD-BLOODED murder, stimulated by moonshine whisky caused considerable excitement about 2:30 o'clock this morning in the laborers' camp of Contractor Charles V. Stansbury on the Frank Melrose Company's Glen Oak tract in Sycamore canyon.

As a result, the body of George Herman, the camp blacksmith, is at the L. G. Scovern Undertaking Company awaiting an inquest, and the arrest of Ted Spencer, one of the laborers, who sped away with two companions following the crime, is expected momentarily owing to the fact that his escape in an intoxicated condition is declared impossible by the police.

George Herman was sleeping on a cot at the right side of a tent, about ten or fifteen feet away. This was about six feet from the entrance. The cot on the opposite side of the tent was occupied by Raymond Bryant, who was an eyewitness to the entire episode.

Seeks to Fight

For some unknown reason, Ted Spencer, who had gotten drunk early in the evening, desired to pick a fight with George Herman, although it was reported that they had a friendly conversation during the afternoon. He made repeated visits to Herman's tent, insulting him in every manner possible, and endeavoring to get him to come outside. Herman paid no attention until his last visit, when he apparently became disgusted with the annoyance.

"I am getting tired of you now," he said, and getting out of bed and standing beside it. "Get out of here or I will put you out."

Ted Spencer, who stood about eight feet away, at the entrance to the tent, pulled out his revolver and shot. He then returned to his own tent, about 100 feet to the west, and the point of his revolver forced Henry Birmingham and Joe Todd, both from Phoenix, Ariz., to leave their tents and accompany him on his escape.

Drive Away in Car
The last seen of them was when the Ford roadster in which they departed sped westward over a newly-graded dirt road toward Sierra avenue. Later an abandoned overcoat was found about half a mile from the camp.

Meanwhile George Herman sat down upon his cot and remained there for several minutes. He then arose and walked about fifty feet westward to another tent. At its entrance he weakened and stumbled over a wooden box. He was assisted to a cot, where he died about half an hour later, before medical aid could reach him.

The escape was made in a newly painted roadster with the number 586-977. Ted Spencer wore khaki trousers and shirt and a brown hat. He is about five feet six inches in height and about 135 pounds in weight.

General Assembly of Presbyterians Ends

INDIANAPOLIS, May 24.—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church prepared to complete its work and dissolve today after a week of history-making sessions.

Threatened schisms over evolution and questions of heresy failed to develop although the issues were projected.

The Presbytery of New York was directed to take whatever action necessary to require the teaching and preaching in the First Presbyterian church of New York to conform to the system of doctrines taught in the conference was born of the Virgin Mary," the report said.

A minority report of the bills and overtures committee virtually placing a ban on utterances of the character of that of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, who claimed belief in the virgin birth of Jesus Christ was not essential to being a Christian, was adopted.

"It is an essential doctrine of the word of God and our standards that our Lord Jesus Christ was born of Virgin Mary," the report said.

The principal business transacted at the last session was the selection of next year's meeting place, the receiving of committee reports and the appointments for various boards and commissions.

CLOSE TURK PORTS

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 24.—Due to the threat of war between Greece and Turkey, the Angora government today ordered all Turkish ports closed to foreign vessels after sunset.

First Picture Of Hot Springs Disaster

This photograph shows the paving on Central avenue, the main street of Hot Springs, Arkansas, ripped up by the torrents which recently inundated the city. While the flood was at its height a disastrous fire broke out, but fortunately there was no loss of life. Immense blocks of asphalt, some twenty by fifty feet, were carried for several blocks by the waters. These blocks were six inches thick and weighed several tons.

U. S. SOLDIERS TO PURSUE BANDITS?

Unconfirmed Report Troops From American Garrison To Enter Action

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI, May 24.—Bringing terms for the release of the foreign captives held by the Chinese bandits, J. B. Powell, American newspaper man, was expected to arrive at Tsao Chang tonight under a bandit escort, according to a report from that point. It is expected the new terms will result in a fresh conference being held following which Powell will return to the bandit camp with the results of the conference.

By EDNA LEE BOOKER
For International News Service

SHANGHAI, May 24.—An unconfirmed press dispatch from Peking today stated that Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister to China, had been instructed by Washington to send American troops to Lincheng, near the mountain stronghold of the Shantung bandits who are holding a number of American prisoners. It was reported, also, that munitions were en route for Lincheng. There is an American garrison at Tien sin, south of Peking on the Shanghai-Peking railway.

Deny Troops Ordered

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Official denial was made at the state department today that any orders had been issued to Jacob Gould Schurman, the American minister to Peking, to employ United States troops against the Shantung bandits.

The department is awaiting further advice from Peking on the progress of the new negotiations to free the Americans and other foreign prisoners, and it stated that the government was not ready to resort to military measures against the Chinese outlaws.

Wealthy Mining Man Is Shot on Desert

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—County authorities today set "traps" along the road leading from Bakersfield in hopes of apprehending the guilty person or persons who shot and seriously wounded McGruder Beal, wealthy Seattle mining man, on the desert between Randsburg and Mojave.

Only meager reports were received here concerning the shooting. Beal is said to have been driving alone along the desert road when he saw a man lying beside the roadway and stopped to render any assistance possible.

Just as Beal was about to assist the supposed injured man he jumped to his feet. A struggle is said to have followed during which the Seattle man was "shot through the neck."

One suspect, William E. Raymond, is said to be held at Randsburg in connection with the affair. Raymond, reports here stated, refuses to tell of his past life.

Mrs. Anne U. Stillman Wins Alimony Victory

NEW YORK, May 24.—The decision of Supreme Court Justice Morschauer, awarding Mrs. Anne U. Stillman $7500 a month alimony and $15,000 counsel fees against James A. Stillman, former president of the National City bank, was affirmed today by the appellate division of the supreme court of Brooklyn. Justice Morschauer's decision was made on February 10, last. Stillman had appealed the award. There was no opinion given by the appellate division.

Exhibits Must Be In Booths Before Big Show Starts

Strict observance of the Glendale Industrial Exposition's rule that all exhibits be completed before 7 p. m. tomorrow, when the doors are opened, was emphasized today in notices served by Director General H. L. Leavitt on several exhibitors.

While the official "prodding" was directed at a few, who seemed slow in making their booths ready, Leavitt declared the order was a general one.

"Positively every exhibit must be finished to the last detail, when the exposition starts," Leavitt insisted. I have seen shows of this kind in which some exhibitors did not complete their portions until a day or so after the show started. Glendale's Exposition will not tolerate any such laggard tactics."

MILLION DOLLARS' DAMAGE BY FIRE

Santa Fe Bridge Across Mississippi River Badly Burned; Trains Halt

FORT MADISON, Iowa, May 24.—Loss of more than a million dollars was suffered, according to estimates, when the Santa Fe bridge spanning the Mississippi river here was badly damaged by fire early today. Hundreds of passengers on trains were delayed when it became necessary to send trains to Gatesburg by Burlington tracks and then them back to the Santa Fe.

Origin of the fire is unknown. The blaze was discovered about midnight and burned fiercely several hours despite combined efforts of railway firemen and firemen from Fort Madison, East Fort Madison and Dallas City.

Several hundred feet of wood flooring were burned from the steel structure. The railway had planned to abandon the bridge this summer and construct a new one slightly south of the present structure, turning over the old bridge to the states of Iowa and Illinois as a highway trestle.

Return Journey of Monoplane Delayed

SAN DIEGO, May 24.—Finding some minor adjustments and repairs necessary on the motor, the start of the monoplane T-2 on a triumphant return flight back across the continent was this morning postponed until tomorrow, it was announced at Rockwell field.

Lieutenants Macready and Kelly were apprised of the change before they had left their hotel, so that they did not appear on the flying field until shortly before noon. They had expected to take the monoplane off the ground about 9 o'clock and make the first lap of their return trip in a slow jaunt from Tucson to El Paso.

The postponement will give Macready another day of honeymooning with his young bride, and permit Kelly to enjoy the company of his fiancée, Miss Mary Watson, for another evening.

SEVERAL KILLED

ESSEN, May 24.—Several persons were killed and many wounded in fighting which raged throughout the night at Dortmund. Clashes also took place between communists and police at Gelsenkirchen.

PRESIDENT PLANS SERIES OF TALKS

Calls in 'Best Minds' to Get Ideas for Speeches During His Tour

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Harding is again calling the "best minds" in the Republican party. He is enlisting their aid and thought in the preparation of the numerous speeches which will dot his 15,000-mile trip from Washington to Porto Rico, via Alaska, this summer.

For ten days prominent Republicans have been dropping in at the White House for chats with the president. Sometimes their visits have been heralded, but more often they have just "happened in," casually, as Elihu Root and ex-Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, explained it.

Most of the "best minds" have been of the variety committed to the world court, and it is understood they have given the president much valuable ammunition. None of the so-called "irreconcilables" have been called in to date.

In the preparation of his court speeches, the president is consulting only a few men outside his immediate official family. The suggestions of Secretary of State Hughes and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, the original proponents of the court scheme in the cabinet, are always available.

Plans Several Talks
Those who have talked with the president about his trip assisted him in the time he reaches San Juan, late in August, he will have answered all criticisms leveled at his administration policies—from foreign affairs to railroads and the tariff.

A few weeks ago, the president informed callers he planned to make one of the major speeches on the world court on his journey. This plan has now been abandoned, it was learned today, and it is likely that Mr. Harding will present his views in several major addresses. These will come in "senemy territory"—where opposition to the court is pronounced, as in Missouri, the home of Senator Jim Reed; in Idaho, the home of Senator William E. Borah, and possibly in California, the stronghold of Senator Hiram Johnson.

Six Killed, 12 Hurt In Crash of Train

BOTHAN, Tex., May 24.—Six persons were killed and twelve injured when Texas & Pacific passenger train No. 15, west-bound, crashed into a thrown switch and ran into a second passenger train, No. 16, on a siding here today.

Four were burned to death in fire which followed the collision. The negro porter of the stationary train was instantly killed. E. M. Stewart of Fort Worth died of injuries. E. C. Reynolds of Fort Worth is the only man identified of those burned to death. The injured were rushed to a hospital at Cisco.

It was reported the dead porter was responsible for throwing of the switch.

ATTACK ON SWISS

COPENHAGEN, May 24.—Anti-Swiss demonstrations were reported today from Petrograd and Odessa as a result of the accusation by the soviet government at Moscow that the Swiss were responsible for the assassination of Vlasov Vorosky at Lausanne. Swiss nationals are said to have been attacked and their property damaged. Swiss passport visas were refused.

ASSOCIATION ORGANIZES TO BOOST CENTRAL

Widening, Paving, Lighting Of Avenue Plan of Property Owners

CONCERTED action for the development of Central avenue into one of the modern, attractive highways of the city, was taken last night at a meeting of Central avenue property owners and other Glendale citizens at the Charles B. Guthrie office at 110 West Broadway, where a Central Avenue Improvement Association was formed with Charles B. Guthrie as president, and Charles Marshall as secretary.

Plans for improving Central avenue were made two weeks ago at a meeting at the Guthrie office and the meeting last night showed that the property owners are heartily supporting the plans as previously outlined and are earnestly desirous of carrying out these plans in detail.

Three Main Plans
There are three main plans for development—first, improving of Central avenue from curb to curb from Broadway to San Fernando road; and, third, widening Central avenue ten feet on each side, making it a 100-foot highway instead of 80 feet, as at present, between Arden avenue and San Fernando road.

The gathering last night was addressed by E. F. Pay, city engineer, and Peter Diederich, superintendent of light and water service, both of whom favored the plans formulated by the property owners.

In furthering their plans the property owners have put in circulation petitions, to be signed and presented to the city council for approval.

Select Committee
With regard to the lighting, a committee was appointed to make inquiry as to the best kind of lighting standards to install. The committee includes S. C. Parker, J. H. Sherman and Charles Marshall. As to the improvement of the street from curb to curb, it is the plan to have the same kind of street material as used recently on Harvard and Orange streets.

"As far as we have been able to reach the property owners," said Mr. Guthrie, "we have found them heartily in favor of all plans for the development of Central avenue. We expect to have another meeting shortly, and to continue our plans as outlined."

While the lighting and curb-to-curb improvements will be in progress perhaps within a year's time, the widening of the street will probably not be completed for two or three years. However, a property line will be established and all buildings will conform to it with a view to carrying out the widening plans.

SENATOR BORAH OPPOSES COURT

Controlled by Manipulation He Says; Burton in Defense of League

BOSTON, May 24.—United States Senator William E. Borah today declared the world court a "court of arbitration and a court controlled by manipulation." Senator Borah was speaking here before the Women's Republican club of Massachusetts.

Congressman Theodore Burton of Ohio, defended the court and the League of Nations.

DISPUTE SETTLED

CHICAGO, May 24.—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad notified the United States railroad labor board here today that it had settled amicably its wage dispute with 11,870 members of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees. Details of the settlement were not mentioned.

SIGNED AS STAR

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., over the reported objections of his famous actor-father, has been signed as a star by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, it was learned today through Jesse L. Lasky. Young Fairbanks will soon leave his home in New York for Los Angeles and in all probability his first production will be "Tom Sawyer," Lasky said.

FLOODS THREATEN

TOPEKA, Kan., May 24.—Major creeks and rivers of the state today were bank-full and overflowing, inundating the lowlands, as a result of heavy rains.

ROBERT SEARLE HAS BREAKDOWN

Popular Boy Collapses as Result of Overstudy and Insomnia Attack

Robert M. Searle, son of Mrs. M. Searle, 121 East Corcoran avenue, and a senior at the Glendale Union high school, is in the psychopathic ward of the Los Angeles General hospital, Mission road, Los Angeles, suffering a complete mental breakdown.

First taken ill last Friday night, May 18, Robert recovered sufficiently to take out Scout Troop No. 1 on a hike to Hayes Canyon, Saturday afternoon. But on this hike his actions became so peculiar that the boys saw he was not himself, and succeeded in getting him into James Ferry's car and driving him back home.

Arrived there, his grief-stricken mother endeavored in vain to quiet him, but it was finally necessary to have him taken to the hospital, where he has since been in a violent condition, with occasional lucid intervals.

Overstudy and Insomnia

Harold F. Benner, local Scout executive, and a close friend of the unfortunate boy, endeavored to ease him at the hospital, but was told by the attendants that Robert may see no one.

Mrs. Searle attributes her son's collapse to overstudy and insomnia, stating that for many nights he had pored over his books until after 12 o'clock and had recently complained of being unable to sleep.

The physicians at the General hospital are understood to be making a thorough analysis of the case. They feel that the lad, who is only 19 years old, has a good chance for recovery, as in their cases of this nature that were only temporary.

The boy's family and many friends are waiting anxiously for some encouraging word.

King Tut Dance at Legion Hall Tonight

A "King Tut Dance" which will be given in the American Legion "tomb" at 610 East Broadway tonight under the auspices of the "dancing engineers" of the city of Glendale is expected to awaken even King Tut himself.

"All local Egyptians of royal caste are urged by L. J. Fortier, chief chamberlain of the court, to board their camels early in the evening and embark for the festivities."

"Bring your harem along, too," he remarked, "but it won't be necessary to figure on being dry during the entire pilgrimage across the desert. The wine of the grape in good clear cold sparkling and kickless punch, which will trickle all seven stomachs of any camel, will flow most bountifully."

Synopsis, such as would have transformed Cleopatra into a snake-charmer, is promised by McElroy's Dusky Sheiks who have imported directly from Egypt about thirty and Central avenues, Los Angeles.

The official summons regarding the revelry was prepared by Hugh Parker and Ralph Goodwin, first and second prime ministers of the court.

Marie Oliver to Be Presented in Recital

Miss Marie Oliver, popular and promising young vocalist, and also popular candidate for queen of the industrial exposition, is to be formally presented to Los Angeles audiences Friday night, June 22, in a recital at the Los Angeles Elbel club by her teacher, John Smallman.

Assisting in the program will be a prominent professional singer, whose name will be announced later.

In addition to her musical talent, Miss Oliver possesses beauty, charm and refinement that have won her a wide circle of friends, all of whom are anticipating her debut into southern California musical affairs. They are also heartily supporting her for the queen of the exposition.

She has been heartily endorsed for queen by the Shrine club, and Exchange club, the postoffice employees, members of the First Methodist church, the Epworth league and other organizations and friends.

ORDER OF SCIOTS

There will be a final organization meeting tonight of the Glendale Pyramid, Ancient Egyptian Order of Sciots. The place is Pearl Keller's hall, 109-A North Brand boulevard, and the time is 8 o'clock. There will be "free smokes and entertainment," according to Dick Kinley, organizer, who states that all Master Masons in the San Fernando valley are eligible and would like to have each one who comes bring a Masonic friend.

Present Comedy

A two act comedy "Sunbonnets" is to be presented by the members of the aid society, of the Casa Verdugo M. E. church, in the basement rooms, Friday night, May 27. Eleven persons are in the cast, and the costumes are to be of the period of 1860. Mrs. Curtis B. Smith is directing the affair. An old fashioned concert and ice cream festival will complete the program of the evening.

Lodge Program

The local lodge of Good Templars will act as host to its sister lodges in Los Angeles county at an all-day gathering to be held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wyckoff of 600 South Adams street. Business meeting will take place in the afternoon, while the evening will be devoted to a program of entertainment.

Outing at Park

The members and friends of the Epworth League of the First Methodist church of this city will motor to Brookside park, Pasadena, late Friday afternoon, where they will enjoy a swimming party and picnic.

Social Events

Showers Honoree

The home of Miss Lillian Schick of 715 South Central avenue, was the scene of a pleasant affair last Saturday evening when she entertained with a miscellaneous shower, complimenting Miss Margaret Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford of 800 South Central avenue, a popular bride-to-be. Miss Crawford's marriage to Roy Selover, also of Glendale, on June 11, will be a social event of unusual interest.

The rooms of the Schick residence were decorated with a profusion of pink roses and greenery. The decorations in the dining room were artistically carried out in the pink and blue color scheme with the table decorations also in pink and blue. A large basket of pink roses formed the centerpiece for the table and nut baskets in blue with tiny pink parasols tied with blue ribbon and pink and blue place cards marked the guests' places.

The gifts were presented to Miss Crawford in a very novel and attractive manner. During the evening's entertainment, each guest was presented with a pink card tied to a blue ribbon and were told to follow the ribbon to the end where each one found a lovely favor. Miss Crawford, instead of finding a favor, discovered a basket filled with lovely gifts wrapped in pink paper and tied with blue ribbon.

During the evening, music, games, and contests were enjoyed and later a dainty course of refreshments were served by the hostess.

Those present besides the guest of honor, Miss Margaret Crawford, were Miss Dorothy Carmack, Miss Edna Coontz, Miss Catherine Niles, Mrs. Francis Gordon, Mrs. Charles Talbot, Mrs. Herbert Bessant, Mrs. George W. Selover, Miss Edna Coontz, and Miss Edna Grabower of Huntington Park and the hostess, Miss Lillian Schick and the groom-to-be, Roy Selover.

Daughters Lunch

The annual luncheon of the U. S. Daughters of 1812, of California, of which Mrs. H. E. Bartlett has been president for the past two years and Mrs. R. W. Meeker corresponding secretary for the same period, will be held in the tea room of the Tuesday Afternoon club on Friday at 1 o'clock.

The decorations carried out in red, white and blue flowers and flags.

An interesting ceremony will be the installation of the new officers for the coming year. Mrs. C. H. Conrad, of Hollywood, is the new president.

Luncheon will be served by the Non-Section members of the Tuesday Afternoon club, under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, chairman of ways and means committee.

Mountain Party

Members of the Philathea Class of the First Methodist church of which Mrs. Helen K. Scripps is class teacher, have completed plans for a mountain party in the Arroyo Seco for this week end. All those who can arrange to go will meet at the church at 2 o'clock sharp, Saturday afternoon, May 26. Automobiles have been secured for transportation and a committee will provide the "eats."

All those who cannot make arrangements to go Saturday afternoon but who could go later in the day, will please telephone Mrs. Marie Oliver, Glendale 2068-M or Miss Lois Percy, Sunland 54, and make arrangements for transportation.

Annual Event

The annual "husbands and escorts' night" of the J. O. C. class of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church will be celebrated Friday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Leslie Trossier, 350 West Maple avenue, it is announced.

The social committee has planned an unusual program for the evening's entertainment, and all members and their husbands and escorts are urged to be present.

May Tea Party

A May time tea is to be given tomorrow at the home of Mrs. W. J. Clendenin at 600 South Central avenue by Circle Nine of the women's organization of the Glendale Presbyterian church.

It will be an informal social affair and all the women of the church are cordially invited to attend. A silver offering will be taken.

Happy Surprised

Mrs. L. W. Babcock, a recent bride, was happily surprised yesterday morning when the women of the Wednesday Morning Interdenominational Bible class arrived at her home at 225 North Howard street for an informal social day.

A poem of congratulation greeted Mrs. Babcock who was presented with an artistic flower bowl filled with carnations. Mrs. I. Rhea Baker, the class teacher, led in prayer and the company of thirty sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Mrs. Babcock responded with a few words of appreciation.

During the luncheon hour Mr. Babcock was called upon for a speech and he responded in his usual genial way.

Board Luncheon

Mrs. R. C. Horner of 432 West Broadway opened her home on Tuesday night for a luncheon for the executive board of the Wilson Avenue Parent Teachers' association.

In the afternoon after the luncheon plans were made for the final meeting of the association on Monday, May 28, in the school auditorium.

Members of the board present were Mesdames Horner, Pierson, Hannan, A. H. Brown, C. H. Bird, John Andre, C. H. Ambrose, John Torrey and C. Morgan, and Mr. Carrie Noble, principal of the school.

Plans for Booth

Announcement is made of the members who will act as chairmen of the American Legion Auxiliary booth at the Exposition, beginning Friday evening, May 25.

Mrs. Margaret Kaeding, president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward are in charge of all arrangements, and they announce the following schedule for the week:

Friday night—Mrs. Margaret Kaeding and Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward.

Saturday afternoon—Mrs. Nell Few; night, Mrs. C. T. Jones.

Monday afternoon—Mrs. Eugene Gilliland; night, Mrs. Stella Hock.

Tuesday afternoon—Mrs. Mary Drake; night, Mrs. Virginia Rowley.

Wednesday, Memorial Day, the booth will be closed.

Thursday afternoon—Mesdames G. E. Murphy and H. L. Anderson.

Friday afternoon—Vacant; night, Mrs. Gertrude Flug.

Saturday afternoon—Mrs. H. L. Anderson; night, Mrs. C. T. Jones.

It is urged that all members assist the above mentioned chairmen in every way possible.

Saturday evening the drawing will take place and the lucky one will be awarded the lovely hope chest which the auxiliary are giving away. Tickets may be purchased at the booth every afternoon and evening during the exposition.

Picnic June 20

Plans for the annual picnic Wednesday, June 20, were made yesterday at the meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading circle at the library. Mesdames R. C. Horner, W. W. Stofft and Charles H. Bird compose the picnic committee.

Another picnic outing in which the members will participate will be the Parent-Teachers' Association Federation picnic Wednesday, June 13, at Brookside park in Pasadena. Announcement of this event was made yesterday by Mrs. E. B. Moore.

The circle members were both flattered and interested in a communication from Mrs. Charles H. Toll, giving a list of names of delegates from many states to the recent National Congress of Mothers at Louisville, Ky., asking for information on the Glendale Reading circle.

During the day Mrs. W. A. Kulp gave a review on "The Privilege of Living" by Harry Emerson Fosdick; Mrs. A. A. Barton read a letter from Miss Lombard of the national bureau of education, inclosing a circular printed by the bureau on reading circle work; the treasurer, Mrs. McLain, reported 104 paid-up members; Mrs. H. V. Henry read from the book "Play and Education" by Lee.

The next meeting of the circle will be Thursday, June 14, next week's meeting falling on Memorial Day.

P. E. O. Hostess

Chapter L. P. E. O., met with Mrs. H. E. Bartlett Wednesday afternoon at her home, 333 West Broadway. Mrs. Genevieve Goss, the president, presided. Reports of standing committees were heard. Mrs. Bartlett, chairman of the year book committee, reported the program planned for next year which will follow along the lines of the present year, that of American history.

An interesting feature of the present year's work was a quiz contest between two sections on the lesson of the day, the losers to furnish the high jinks at the final program of the year. On counting the score the section whose members' names begin with the letters of the alphabet from A to G, inclusive, was the winner by three points and consequently those from H to Z will be on hand June 13, no doubt, with an interesting program.

Final plans were made for the reciprocity luncheon which takes place today at the Tuesday Afternoon club. The luncheon is in charge of the Reciprocity bureau of the Glendale chapters and the guests are the local chapters, Burbank and Eagle Rock chapters, with the California Grand chapter officials as guests of honor.

May Tea Party

Mrs. L. W. Babcock, a recent bride, was happily surprised yesterday morning when the women of the Wednesday Morning Interdenominational Bible class arrived at her home at 225 North Howard street for an informal social day.

A poem of congratulation greeted Mrs. Babcock who was presented with an artistic flower bowl filled with carnations. Mrs. I. Rhea Baker, the class teacher, led in prayer and the company of thirty sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Mrs. Babcock responded with a few words of appreciation.

During the luncheon hour Mr. Babcock was called upon for a speech and he responded in his usual genial way.

Party at Concert

Among the parties attending the Music club's scholarship fund benefit tonight, at the Tuesday Afternoon club, will be one given by Miss Annie L. McIntyre, principal of the Central Avenue school. Miss McIntyre's guests are members of her teaching staff, including Mesdames Arthur Miner, Lee Emery, E. E. Harwood and Misses Elizabeth Edwards, Alice Levy, Janet Perkins, Olive Taylor and Ethel Culbertson.

Announce Social

Mrs. Evelyn Hall is chairman of the committee arranging for the social affair to be enjoyed next Tuesday night by members at the home of the Carnation Rebekah lodge. It will be a benefit for the

THEATRES*THE GLENDALE

Real diversion is offered in "All's Fair in Love," the new Goldwyn film now showing at the Glendale Theatre, featuring Richard Dix, Stuart Holmes, Raymond Hatton and pretty May Collins.

An Egyptian bracelet, reputed to bring both good luck and ill, under certain circumstances, causes a great deal of comic woe, in this highly hilarious celluloid farce, which is an adaptation of the popular stage play, "The Bridal Path," by Thompson Buchanan.

E. Mason Hopper directed the film, and has managed to pack into it a full measure of riotous fun, together with some serious moments and one smashing scene that will never be forgotten.

The plot concerns the doing of a bride who gets the idea that her husband is untrue to her. She leaves the "beast," only to learn she has misjudged him. Her efforts to win him back form the fun.

SPEAKS AT SCHOOL

B. M. Moulder of Tujunga, district equipment engineer for the Southern California Telephone Company, yesterday afternoon addressed general science students at Glendale Union High school. Ross V. Miller, their instructor, stated that his talk concerning the development of telephone equipment was indeed a treat.

The tariff on dimethylphenylbenzylammonium and tetramethylaminodiphenylmethane has been raised by the bill recently passed by Congress.

TWO BICYCLES STOLEN

The theft of two bicycles yesterday was reported to the Glendale police department. One of them was a new Blue Crown belonging to Ralph Kenney, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kenney, of 318 North Maryland avenue. The other was an Emblem racer belonging to Harold Roach, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Roach, of 1108 Monterey road.

Chinese Bandits Move Camp

View of pass in mountains of Shantung, through which bandits carried prisoners to new camp, and American troops ready to entrain at Tientsin for action against the bandits if called.

Removal by the Chinese bandits of their foreign prisoners to a new camp ten miles farther into the fastnesses of the Shantung mountains has made the work of negotiating for the release of their prisoners that much more difficult, according to dispatches. Means of communication have been cut off.

HISTORY OF CITY PLACED IN BOOK

Creditable Volume Is Put Out by J. C. Sherer, Pioneer Citizen

The background of the fastest growing city in the United States is in the hands of Glendaleans in an attractively bound volume "Glendale and Its Vicinity," compiled by J. C. Sherer, former owner of The Glendale Evening News when it was a weekly publication and city treasurer, assisted by F. B. Broadbooks.

There is undoubtedly no other person in Glendale who has a keener appreciation and more comprehensive knowledge of the history of the city than Mr. Sherer and Glendaleans have awaited with interest the publication of his book.

Announcement of his plan to compile such a book was received with interest and hearty support by subscriptions from those desiring to add the volume to their libraries.

Much information of the book inclose a wealth of interesting information based on historical facts. The cover binding of tan imitation leather with dark brown Morocco leather finishing is a piece of splendid work. As for the interior, the best grade of paper has been used and the material is pleasingly printed on gilt-edged pages and illustrated with well-made cuts.

Mr. Sherer begins with the discoveries on the California coast and gives accounts of the early days and the development of the city of Glendale and vicinity.

In conclusion, there are two chapters devoted to interviews and afterthoughts and to biographical sketches.

FORCED TO LAND

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—Lieutenant Maxwell, United States army flyer, was forced to make a landing on San Francisco bay today when his motor stalled while flying out to greet the transport Grant, on which Secretary of War John W. Weeks and a congressional party arrived. A Standard Oil tug saw the forced landing and rescued the aviator. A tug has been dispatched to attempt to salvage the plane.

FIRPO GOES HOME

NEW YORK, May 24.—Having reached an agreement with Tex Rickard for the scheduled bout with Jess Willard to be held not later than July 7, Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, will leave for Cuba today. He is scheduled to meet Joe White, an Alabama heavyweight, at Havana, early in June in a fifteen-round bout and later will go to Mexico City, where he will face Jim Hubbard in a 20-round bout.

SPIRITUALISTS MEET

Rev. Jennie McHenry of the local spiritualistic organization, announces that the Health and Success club is to have the usual meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce hall at 150 South Brand boulevard. She will be in charge and will give messages, assisted by other club members from Glendale and Los Angeles.

EXCHANGE CLUB TO ASSIST BAND

Members Decide to Foster Boys' Musical Body Being Formed

The Glendale Exchange club, which met yesterday noon in the Golden Spanish Cafe at 111 South Orange street, decided to foster the boys' band which is being organized by Community Service.

This band will be considerable of an asset to Glendale, according to the attitude of this club. The opinion was expressed that its promotion is a matter of civic importance.

Much mirth exploded during the luncheon by the promiscuous assessment of small fines by Capt. D. Ripley Jackson, president of the club. All present cheerfully "fed the kitty" when they were informed that the fines would purchase tickets to boost Miss Marie Oliver, candidate for queen of the Industrial Exposition.

An approaching outing to Capt. W. B. Kelly's new holdings in the San Jacinto mountains was discussed. Several of the members openly admitted that they have already gotten out their fishing tackle and bathing suits in anticipation.

Girl Makes Big Hit

Adeline Woodberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Woodberry of 225 South Central avenue, was much applauded following her playing upon a saxophone which was almost as big as herself of "C Melody." As an encore she played a little jazz, or rather a lot of jazz, in "You've Got to See Mamma Every Night."

A trio from the Shrine Club Orchestra played two selections: "Carolina in the Morning" and "Mellow Moon." Mike Kaufman, who accompanied Adeline, was at the piano. A. M. Kelly was the violinist, while Clem Donaldson was the clarinetist.

The attendance prize was an expensive pair of horn-rimmed "sun blinkers" donated by Optician Warren Z. Newton of 121 North Brand boulevard. They were won by R. W. Jessup of 5430 Phyllis street, who was "kidded" about wearing them when getting the milk at his dairy ready for the market.

HELD TO ANSWER

Several stolen typewriters and office appliances having been found in his possession, Bennet Sutter, alias Harry Bender, was brought from the Riverside county jail at Riverside yesterday afternoon and spent the night in the city jail at Los Angeles. He was given a preliminary hearing at 2 o'clock this afternoon by Judge F. H. Lowe and bound over to the superior court.

REPORTS AUTO THEFT

C. W. Wilson, of 1034 South San Fernando road about 11:25 o'clock last night reported the theft of his Ford from the vicinity of Harvard and Maryland streets to the local police department. RUSS REFUGEES SAILING TO U. S.

Comparatively Few Remain Out of 8000 That Fled From Red Russia

OLONGAPO, P. I., May 24.—

Probably the most heterogeneous collection of humanity ever embarked for a trans-Pacific voyage today beneath a beaming tropical sun wended their way aboard the United States army transport Merritt which will be their "ark" to carry them to America—their promised land. They are the 545 remaining souls of the band of 8000 that fled Red Russia last winter with Admiral Stark on the famous "white" fleet.

All ranks of society are represented among the refugees from peasant to ex-lieutenant-general of the Imperial Russian army. They are clad in every imaginable costume from the primal G-string affected by some of their Philippine hosts to gorgeous gold laced uniforms.

In the strange company are one hundred women and thirty children. Cupid has been busy during the stay of the Russians at Olongapo, twenty-five marriages having been recorded—two yesterday.

Colonel Munson, personal representative of Governor-General Wood, who is directing the embarkation today completed a vocational census of the party. It revealed 226 mechanics; ninety-eight farmers; forty seamen; thirty-seven firemen; twenty-eight fishermen; nineteen navigating officers; nineteen electricians; sixteen motor mechanics; thirteen radio operators and five cattle raisers.

Bees Keepers, Too
In addition, there are five beekeepers who likely will have the least to do during the voyage of the Merritt to San Francisco. Four nurses, however, will likely have their hands full as the stork is hovering over six families.

The chief difficulty is pronunciation of the Russian names. These are giving the embarkation officers nightmares, but with the aid of a few interpreters, their difficulties are being smoothed away. The emigrants are being brought aboard Subic bay in navy barges and checked at the gangplank by Colonel Munson and his staff.

Knocked By Heat

The tropical heat nearly brought serious complications to the proposed voyage of the refugees to the states. An hour and a half after the Merritt left Manila for Olongapo to pick up the main body of refugees, the Russian stokers keeled over unconscious, and the remainder of the Russian engine room crew quit, exhausted. A hasty roll-call among the 100 refugees aboard secured enough volunteers to stoke the engine for the balance of the voyage.

When the Merritt sails late today or tomorrow, Admiral Stark, leader of the gallant little band, will be left behind with sufficient men to guard the "white fleet" on which the refugees made their voyage here and which represents largely their "capital." Enough money remained in the gold boxes of the refugees for Admiral Stark to pay the $10 gold immigration fee for each refugee.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 24.—The stock market closed strong today. Under the leadership of California Petroleum the oils extended their gains. The California issue rose to 111 for a gain of over 8 points.

Maryland rose to 48 1/2, an advance of over 2 points.

Railroad shares continued exceptionally strong with Southern railway advancing about 2 points to 33.

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds firm. Sales stocks 1,120,600; bonds $14,862,000.

In Grain Markets
CHICAGO, May 24.—Irregularly marked the close in grain prices here today but with a trend towards strength. Trading was dull on bearish reports from the southwest. Wheat closed 1/2 to 1/4 lower. Corn finished unchanged to 1/4 off. Provisions were slightly stronger.

OIL PLANT BURNING

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 24.—A negro pumpman was unaccounted for early today and an $80,000 gallon tank of motor oil at the Wofford Oil company's plant was still burning after an explosion which shook Birmingham and threatened the entire plant and the negro district in that part of the city.

for an assured profit on the investment?

We believe not, but we know that a buy on

EAST COLORADO BOULEVARD

located right, will make a much quicker and larger percentage of profit for the next few months.

We make this statement
knowing that a prospective
buyer will investigate and verify.

We have 143x120 on Colo-

LA CRESCENTA

SUNDAY SCHOOL
CLASS TO PICNIC

Outing to Take Place on Bolridges' Estate; Plan
To Build Church

Mrs. Angier's Sunday school class will have a picnic tomorrow afternoon. Meeting after school the class and teachers will hike over to the Bolridges' estate, where they will swim, ride and play tennis. After the picnic dinner is eaten the girls will hold their annual campfire meeting. Mesdames Angier, Murdock and Hansen will chaperone the party. Mr. Easton, who has just completed his stucco store building on the corner of Montrose and Pennsylvania avenues, has opened a grocery store there.

Mrs. La Gue, Jr., of West Montrose avenue, has just returned from the hospital with her little daughter, Pauline Bernice. Mrs. La Gue before her marriage was a local teacher.

Farewell Gift
The eighth grade is to present as their farewell gift to the school a picture. Margaret Brown and Mary Ann Howard are to select the gift.

Dr. and Mrs. Hurd of Laurel canyon, and Mr. and Mrs. Barnett of New York, are the new guests at "The Mount."

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bennett spent today at their former home in Riverside.

Only ten members were present at the meeting held last night by the building committee of the Episcopal church, to discuss ways and means to raise funds for the erection of the church. Already $800 has been raised. Dr. Renison, rector from Eagle Rock was present. Mrs. Wellington served ice lemonade and cakes.

Mrs. Weber and her sister, Mrs. Martin, who is visiting here from Philadelphia, will spend a week in San Diego.

PLANS TO MAKE
EUROPEAN TRIP

Mrs. C. A. Redmond Leaves
Next Tuesday; to Spend
Several Months Away

The summer months hold many pleasures in store for Mrs. C. A. Redmond of 331 West Harvard street, who leaves next Tuesday for a trip that will take her across the continent and then on across the Atlantic for foreign travel and for her first visit with her mother in Sweden in twenty years.

Mrs. Redmond will be accompanied as far as New York by her husband. They will leave Glendale on Tuesday and en route east will stop at Salt Lake city, Chicago, Niagara Falls, Buffalo and New York city.

Mrs. Redmond will sail on the Berengaria, a Cunard liner, formerly the Imperator. Landing at Southampton she will visit London and Hull and will then go on over to Sweden and Norway. During her stay there she will have the pleasure of attending the big jubilee exposition now in progress in Sweden.

After three months Mrs. Redmond will journey through France and Germany and will then return to the United States and to her home in Glendale.

WEIRD METHODS TO SECURE DRUG

Japanese Women Active in Getting Opium to China,
State Officials

LONDON, May 24.—Tales of smugglers who supply China with opium are told in the book, "The Charm of the Middle Kingdom," just published here by James Reid Marsh, who for many years was an official of Chinese customs and an extensive traveler in parts of China hitherto unknown to the outside world.

Concealed in the thick, abundant hair of Japanese women, in jales of cotton, in the muzzles of rifles, in coffins and in the trunks of pompous Chinese generals, the drug evades the long arm of the law and 90 per cent of it reaches its destination without detection.

Much Hidden in Cotton
Japanese cotton is shipped to India, pressed into bales by machinery there and thence is sent to China. This cotton forms the chief vehicle for carrying the forbidden drug into China. Indian cotton, by a treaty stipulation, enters certain ports of China. This, according to one of the smugglers Mr. Marsh quotes, means that it is practically exempt from examination because a machine pressed bale of cotton is impervious to probe.

"Did it ever strike you as odd that so much Japanese cotton is transhipped to India, rebaled there and finally consigned to treaty ports?" asked Marsh's informant, a Russian named Kochalski, who was in the smuggling business, but was concerned with a lesser route which was run as a blind. Every one of those bales carries opium or worse," he continued. "But that is the big method. The lesser ones are more amusing. Hardly a coal tender goes through but what contains buried far beneath the coal a bit of coagulated poppy juice. We give the engineer and stoker a number of pieces of silver. Nature does the rest—human nature, I mean."

Women Hide It In Hair
"Why do so many Japanese women travel up and down the line? Because they have such a gorgeous sufficiency of hair. Being accustomed to carrying burdens on their crowns, a mere mat of a few ounces of the drug is easily met. Soldiers with rifles have many advantages. The muzzles can be plugged so as to cut off the smell. Opium is pungent. Give me a windless night and a pound of opium within a quarter of a mile and it is mine."

"Of course there are a hundred ways of concealing the stuff. You can figure out most of them yourself. But the great lubricant of the trade is silver, much fine silver."

Mr. Marsh says, however, that the extent of the opium trade is greatly magnified by the missionaries. "Had the opium trade ever been half so bad as the missionaries picture it," he writes, "China would have long since been lulled to a dreamless sleep." He tells the story of an adventure while accompanying one of his chief Chinese officers. They captured two coffins full of opium aboard an incoming junk one night. Bribery in this case had worked both ways, as one of the coolies aboard the vessel had hidden the cargo by hanging a yellow light in the bow.

NOVEL SHAKER

Clara's Friends Fight To Prevent Her Return To U. S.

MAP SHOWS ROUTE OF CLARA PHILLIPS, INSET, ON HER FLIGHT FROM LOS ANGELES TO HONDURAS

Jesse Carson, who posed as the husband of the woman being held in jail at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, has admitted that she is Clara Phillips, Los Angeles "hammer slayer," surnamed the "Tiger Woman." Carson admitted her identity after Morris Lavine, newspaperman, had trailed her there, by the route shown on the map, and positively identified her as the escaped murderess. Carson has made several vain attempts to arrange an interview with President Gutierrez in the hope of preventing extradition and has announced that he will spend $10,000 if need be.

PUTS BLAME ON
NAVAL OFFICERS TO AID SHOW

Cause for Many Desertions,
Declares Captain in Official Report

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, May 24.—Responsibility for the alarming desertion rate in the navy was laid at the door of the naval officers by Captain R. H. Leigh, U. S. N., in an official statement issued today by the navy department.

After presenting statistics to show that since 1916, 93,717 men had deserted or were discharged without honor, Captain Leigh made a sharp attack upon training methods at the naval academy. "In my opinion," Captain Leigh declared, "lack of training for midshipmen in handling men is responsible for a large part of avoidable defections."

"The midshipmen go into the service with the idea that an enlisted man is in a class below the 'pieb' and generally treat them accordingly."

He advocated a thorough course in personnel management for all naval cadets and a keener appreciation of the human element in training schedules.

Cause of Desertion
Captain Leigh reviewed the cause of desertion, as obtained from a questionnaire sent to officers, declaring "it is significant and of deep concern to note that 54 per cent of the officers place the blame upon officers and chief petty officers, and they upon ourselves, those of us responsible for the navy's success."

"The bureau of navigation," he continued, "is engaged in preparation of a course of study which will present the modern theories of this subject."

"None is more closely related to the turnover of the navy and it is so important it is intended to introduce it later into the examination for promotion of officers and petty officers."

During the last eight years out of a total of 442,615 charges, 35,049 enlisted men deserted, 19,155 were discharged because of bad conduct, 15,826 got dishonorable discharges and 23,687 were discharged as undesirable, Captain Leigh said.

Miss Marie Oliver
Indorsed for Queen

Indorsement of Miss Marie Oliver as queen of the Industrial Exposition was the feature of the meeting yesterday noon of the welfare organization of local post-office employees.

C. F. Newton is chairman of the organization, and he was in charge of the meeting.

The members are looking forward to a picnic outing, to be held shortly. A committee is to be named to make plans for the affair.

BROKEN EYEGLASSES
More eyeglasses are broken by wearers between Friday afternoon and Monday morning than during all the rest of the week, because many are engaged in athletic sports over the week-end.

PHYSICIANS HEAR
LAWYER'S VIEWS

Prosecutor of Mrs. Phillips
Says Law and Medicine
Close Together

Attorney Charles W. Fricke, who prosecuted Clara Phillips, was the speaker yesterday noon at the dining room of the Citizens' building, at the monthly luncheon of the Glendale Physicians' club.

Dr. F. M. Rossiter, of 201-A West Broadway, presided. Dr. Charles E. Dicks, of Eagle Rock, chairman of the program committee, introduced the speaker. He stated that, through his connection with the courts as an alienist, he had learned to have high respect for the prosecuting attorney's office. He remarked that members of the prosecuting attorney's staff seem to have a most "uncanny" familiarity with medical facts and terms which indicates the possession of broad general knowledge.

Clara Phillips' case was not discussed, although it was mentioned several times. Attorney Fricke stated that her mental complexity was such that, should she be angered, she would be likely to fly into a "killing rage." He called attention to the fact that a number of years ago she had almost killed a younger sister while in a fit of anger.

Denies Crime Wave
The existence of a definite crime wave was denied. Attorney Fricke admitted that the amount of crime in California has greatly increased since the war, but expressed his opinion that the quantity is not likely to decrease as would be the case if it were merely the result of a spasmodic wave of criminality.

Reasons for the increase in crime in the vicinity of Los Angeles, in the opinion of Attorney Fricke, are the increased population due to the attractiveness of the climate, the number of young men who are lured to the Southland by the expectation of obtaining high wages, and who become hangers-on about cheap dives; the increased number of mental defectives, increased disregard and disrespect for the law, the increased use of narcotics, and the encouragement of crime by court delays.

Attorney Fricke, who has been connected with the prosecution of more than 4000 criminal cases in Los Angeles county, stated that about half of his correspondence now is from residents of San Quentin or Folsom, who seem to bear him no malice.

"The average criminal does not feel hostile toward the man who prosecutes him if he feels that he has gotten a square deal," he remarked, adding that the district attorney's deputies exert every precaution to give defendants a square deal.

One of the last remarks in the court room of a man whose appeal from a verdict of murder was denied recently, according to Attorney Fricke, was "Well, I got a square deal!"

Physicians present found Attorney Fricke's speech of keen interest and extended him a vote of thanks for his address.

Law and Medicine
"There is a large connection between medicine and the law," he remarked. "A man cannot successfully try criminal cases unless he familiarizes himself to a substantial degree with the common cases of insanity."

Doctors are very reluctant to admit that there is anything about anatomy that they don't know, according to Attorney Fricke. He warned those present of the dangers of attempting "to bluff" in such cases, and reminded them that, in court, they would be likely to find themselves in a legal trap which might prove embarrassing.

In order to discredit the testimony of an "expert witness" upon the opposing side, one of the court tricks, as explained by Attorney Fricke, is to put an absolutely incompetent "expert witness" on the other side to pick innumerable flaws in his testimony, and then to exclaim to the jury: "There you see the value of expert testimony!"

Narcotics have a large effect upon crime, according to Attorney Fricke. He stated that "dope" addicts have no trouble in getting their drugs and that all that they need to do is to let it be known to a few persons in the ring that they are in the market. He said that peddlers would rather give them the dope without cost than permit them to succeed in breaking the habit. He stated that an investigation revealed the fact that a few addicts acquired the habit because of narcotics administered to them in sickness by physicians, although many of them plead this excuse. He explained that most of them find themselves physically unable to continue the pace of fast living and are urged by a "friend" to take "dope" as a stimulant. Before long they find themselves in its clutches.

Denies Probation Fails
Speaking at length upon the frequency of insanity pleas as a defense, Attorney Fricke stated: "There hasn't been a straight-from-the-shoulder insanity case presented in our courts here for some time."

"It is generally felt that probation has been a failure. It has not! About sixty-five per cent of all those placed on probation make good. If only twenty-five per cent made good, I would still believe in the system."

DISCOVER LAND OF RICH WIDOWS

Fred Deal Has Friend Who
Locates Wealthy Ones
In Sunny South

An unpurged edition of a tourist's idea of Southern California has been sent Fred Deal, Glendale manager of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, by a friend in Toledo, Ohio. Following are the interesting remarks written for the Toledo Blade by one "in our midst":

And such flowers. They are everywhere in luxurious bloom. In April the first rains are over so everything is green and bright. California at its best. From May to November they get no rain and things get dry and a bit dirty, but now all is glorious in gorgeous array of coloring and you say, "Here let me stay always."

But in July when I was there several years ago it was hot and I saw some dust and I said to the taxi driver, "How is it you have dust in beautiful sunny California?" And he replied as every Californian does, "I've lived here seventeen years and it's the first time we ever had any dust."

They never admit a thing derogatory of their beautiful land. You never hear a peep. Every-body boasts and boasts.

They tell you things you know instinctively are lies and yet you cannot be there a week without believing them and then be telling them as well.

Boosting is contagious. Our train hardly crossed the border into California when we stopped for water at a tiny town. There was a huge billboard which would have entirely overshadowed the town had the sun shone in the right direction, but on that billboard were these words:

"The Best Town on Earth," and the best part of it was, those men believe it. They had sold themselves and believe me, boys, never try to sell anyone anything if you haven't first sold yourself.

What a great thing for us in the east if we could get a bit of this spirit, and never say a word of our town except in praise. This does not mean we should not criticize if thereby we can build for the better, but there should be no place for peep knocking. We can indeed learn a great lesson from the west. We soon found how small the world is, for we had hardly landed in Los Angeles before we ran into Toledoans. You know California is occupied by easterners. It is hard to find a real native. They seem to have gone out there to retire or spend their money or to enjoy the wonderful climate and pick money off trees as they think possible.

"And Widows, Oh Boys!" Think of them. 75,000 widows in Los Angeles county alone. Most of them are rich. Their husbands have died back east and they have brought their money and fine clothes to sunny California and there they bask in the sun, fishing for a man. No wonder my leading lady insisted on going out with me.

And old men, you see them everywhere, in the host of fashionable hotels, sitting around in their golf clothes for all there you play golf every day in the year. You know golf, boys? Out there they describe it thusly: "Golf is a game that needlessly prolongs the life of a lot of useless individuals."

And you see thousands of old men who ought to be decorating a grave stone years ago, playing 18 holes in the morning, stepping around at a tea dance in the afternoon and playing Ma Jongg at night. That new Chinese game surely has everyone playing it. You see it all the time until you wonder if anyone works out here or if life is just one tea dance and game after another. I like to loaf but want mine occasionally—not all the time.

In the United States registration area, comprising thirty-four states, the death rate from all forms of tuberculosis fell from 160 in 1910 to 114 in 1920.

COMMENT That's All

Human Nature About Alike
Manufacturing Criminals
Morale Needs Bolstering
All Ready For Exposition
By Gil A. Cowan

WHILE America and Americans are at "fever heat" in their demands that the Chinese bandits release their prisoners, nationals of other countries, the state of California has just witnessed an occurrence which is comparable with the banditry of China.

Read the International News Service report from Oakland, under the date of May 23:

"A pitched battle between 500 strike-breakers and striking boiler-makers at the Associated Oil Company's plant near Martinez was in progress today, the aftermath of importation of several hundred strike-breakers."

A barrage of bricks and clubs hurled at the strike-breakers as they marched into the company's yards this morning precipitated the battle."

As we understand the situation in China, the bandits are soldiers who have been thrown out of work, locked out if you please, from government support. All they want is their jobs back and a million dollars to boot.

The strikers in Martinez are fighting for their jobs and a dollar a day additional pay to boot! Not so much difference in human nature the world over, is there? It depends entirely upon a person's viewpoint.

Three policemen were reported dismissed in Los Angeles recently for violations of the law. It would appear, and only yesterday a former army lieutenant was revealed as a bandit gang leader.

It would seem that the long arm of the law is rather short in its educational system when it literally manufactures more criminals. There is no question but what the army and navy service train many men the ease with which weapons could be wielded.

And in the police departments of the cities the constant contact with crime is not conducive to decency. A novice soon has his mind seared with the world's morbidity and first thing he knows he has fallen into the human sewer with the rest of the lawless element.

This is written with all due respect for the many good and honest policemen and officials who are to be congratulated on their records in the face of daily temptations. We have friends on the forces of various cities who could not be bought away from duty as they see it, but they were recruited in years gone by when the whole nation had more backbone.

Without question America needs bolstering of its morale, rather than crying over its lost morals. People do not lose their morals, they simply forget them at times.

Decentralization of the population is a necessity if American virility is to continue. Too many in the metropolis and not enough in the country to stabilize the race, if we are to judge rightly.

Today the city youth is so thoroughly sophisticated by the time he is ready and willing to work that he has little to learn. And he doesn't know a great deal of anything in particular. So there is a problem promoted by our educational system that is a puzzle.

Educators today feel satisfied their teaching is going for naught in a large number of instances. They hardly get settled in their class work before a bell rings and there is something new to intrigue the youngster's mind.

Out in the country districts where one little girl holds the chair of learning in the little red schoolhouse, as it were, some thinking ability is developed. There is little else to do but study.

But down in the busy city a visiting Frenchman might compare our schools to "continuous vaudeville." Certainly the program changes every few minutes and so do the performers.

All is excitement and expectancy in Glendale with its great industrial exposition opening tomorrow.

Talk with the business men and that is all they will talk about. Talk with the business men and they will walk you up Brand boulevard to where the exposition holds forth.

A column might be written here extolling the event, but what's the use when it's getting all of the publicity in the news columns. All we have to say is a word of advice:

Be sure and see the show!

Gets New Trial When Sentences Overlap

ATLANTA, May 24.—Serve a life sentence for murder and two years for carrying concealed weapons.

This was the task placed on the shoulders of Aaron Mayweather, negro, by Georgia courts in 1919, and after serving four years on the chain gang he is to get a new trial on the murder charge. Records show Mayweather was given the two additional years on the following day for carrying concealed weapons.

The complication gave birth to a wrangle several days ago in which county authorities held that he was serving his minor sentence while the commission declared he was putting in time on the life term.

Regardless of the outcome, Mayweather was released from the chain gang and is now awaiting a new trial in the county jail.

Sliding along in a haphazard way makes work a burden instead of play.

GUN LOCATER IS U. S. DISCOVERY

Scientists Find Way to Learn Location of Any
Hidden Artillery

By ROBT. S. THORNBURGH
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, May 24.—Hidden artillery will have no terror for the United States army in the "next war."

Scientists of the bureau of standards have announced they have developed a gun "locator" functioning with such accuracy that within a few moments after the first enemy salvo return fire from American long rifles may be directed to silence the concealed battery.

The work has been in progress since the United States entered the world war. Devices to detect hidden guns used by the French and British have been improved to a high degree of efficiency, according to the announcement.

Dr. H. A. Eckhart, in charge of the general study of acoustics, declared the American gun locator is a practically infallible guard against extensive operation of concealed batteries.

The listening posts, he explained, has a switchboard, similar to telephone equipment, with automatic listening posts, which, in warfare, would be distributed at various points along the terrain to be protected. By the difference in time of recording the gun's detonation at the various listening posts, the battery may be located. Operators would immediately transmit the map designation of the "big berth" to the artillery and fire would be directed to put it out of commission.

The noteworthy example of operation of concealed guns during the world war was that of the famous German "big berth," which, on Good Friday, 1918, hurled a shell into the Church of St. Gervais, Paris, killing 100 worshippers. This long rifle, throwing projectiles seventy-five miles, shelled Paris intermittently during the summer of 1918. It was finally found to have been fired from the forest of St. Gobain.

MAIN STREET IS FORMING IN PARIS

American Colony, Now of 25,000 People, Will Develop Center

PARIS, May 24.—"Super Main Street" is the latest popular title for that part of Paris inhabited permanently by Americans. New evidence of the aptness of the name is found in the fact that the American colony is just like any mid-western or southern town in the United States, for, with a population of 25,000, it has decided to have its own home talent dramatic organization, having experimented with no little success in the last week under the name of "The American Theater in Paris," with Augustus Thomas' "Her Husband's Wife" the initial production.

The Hotel Majestic has been selected as the best temporary location for the American effort to uplift the stage, its special theater salon having been crowded to the doors two nights running.

Like any other grouping of Americans, there is plenty of talent, some of it trained, and what was available was whipped into shape by Edwin R. Wood, who directed the doughboy show "Goodbye, Bill!" in New York. Mr. Wood is convinced it will be possible to have an American dramatic season here within two or three years, with a permanent local company and a long repertoire, which will keep new arrivals from getting homesick and remind the others of what is going on in the theaters back home.

But Super Main Street's attention is not confined solely to the theater. The colony offers a dozen back home attractions, including get-together clubs for churchmen and sewing circles, which turn out monthly huge quantities of baby dresses and comforters for the poorer residents, especially those in the devastated regions.

Bridge parties, art lectures and musical afternoons, with both American and "imported" talent are sufficiently numerous to keep the calendar of any society matron filled, while Paris goes the original "super" debating societies. There are really French institutions backed by a few high-brow writers, lecturers and artists, but since it has become known that they are attended assiduously by Sorbonne philosophers there are many Americans who wouldn't think of missing a session.

Instead of being bored by discourses on American politics, by visiting politicians who pose as missionaries in a far land, the Super Main Streeters find it more restful to attend either the Crampton or Faubourg meetings in artistically draped rooms and listen to French poets discuss the merits of polygamy, condemn communism or learnedly expound the reasons for modern musical decadence. One of the best known American ministers in Paris has even gone so far as to permit himself to be advertised as a participant in one of these meetings.

his part in the program consisting not in hymns, ancient or modern, but a long series of popular American negro melodies.

Happiest Colony

Still, Super Main Street cannot be censured, for it is undoubtedly the happiest foreign colony in Paris, the French police records showing that only two Americans committed suicide in the colony last year, both of which were the result of neurasthenia developed before the principals had arrived in the ville lumiere.

In a letter which is a mixture of humor and pleading, Municipal Councillor Emile Desvaux had asked the mayor and the prefect of police to prevent the cruelty to animals, which is shocking the American residents.

"As you know," he writes "there is an important American colony in Paris. Americans generally love France, but they are astonished at the way we treat animals. They have studied the question and found that it is only in France and certain Jewish quarters of Frankfurt, Germany, where animals are allowed to bleed to death."

"Moreover, the Americans are very sensitive. They have even complained that certain roads leading to slaughter houses are so badly paved that numerous animals have bruised their hoofs." Desvaux insists this is a violation of the city's ordinance against vivisection and cruelty in general.

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY
Ad Schuster

Dan Garney sought to conceal his feeling when a friend noticed him enter and beckoned. The lad would rather have eaten alone.

"You're just too late! Imagine an adventure without you being here. I didn't think it could be possible."

"Suppose you quit your kidding and tell me about it. Looks like there had been a fight. Looks like waiters were replacing a cloth on a neighboring table. There was silver on the floor."

"Queerest thing I ever saw. Everything was quiet, except for the speaker of the evening. Old Captain Whim, you know. We were all straining our ears to listen, for the old boy was spilling some deep and critical stuff. Took some of his superiors to task, told cabinet officials where they were wrong and was having a regular spree forgetting tact and dignity. Just as he finished a particularly strong one, a thin young fellow with owl glasses jumps up from that table, grabs the tablecloth and jerks it off, sending the crockery and silver flying. It was a big noise and everyone turned in time to see the man run out waving the tablecloth. I guess they haven't caught him yet."

"And I wasn't here," sighed Dan.

"Well, what's the answer?"

"That's what we all want to know. I suppose the police will grab him after a while and we can find out. I'm stuck for an answer, but you who specialize in romance, adventure and peculiar behavior ought to be able to figure it out."

"You're a writer," Dan answered, "and this is the setting for a story. Let's see what you can do with it."

"The young man," the writer welcomed the chance to elaborate a theory he had half formed while he talked, "had to leave at a certain hour. It was important he

That Ignace Paderewski, famous Polish pianist and statesman, has partly recuperated the fortune he sacrificed in his effort to lead Poland to a firm footing, is indicated by the statement that the United States concert tour which he recently completed netted him $400,000. He sailed recently for Poland with Mme. Paderewski to rest up for another American tour. Paderewski threw his personal fortune into the cause when named premier of his country after the war.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

My Dear Followers:

When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget to enclose the s. a. s. e. if you ask for an article.

"Dear Doctor:

"A year ago I reduced my weight twenty-five pounds, but your process seemed too slow so I went on a reduction diet of my own. No breakfast and no lunch. I had for dinner a small amount of meat, some bread, a green vegetable and a baked potato.

"A short time ago my nails became brittle and ridges began to appear on them. My hair began to break off. I do not sleep well and am becoming a peevish wonder.

"Is it your opinion that I am now paying the price for my unscientific dieting?"—Mrs. J.

Yes, my dear, that is my opinion, very decidedly. In reducing too rapidly you did not supply the elements your system needed. You probably did not get enough protein nor mineral elements nor vitamins in your diet if you reduced more than two pounds a week—which is the limit I believe you should go by.

The instructions have been sent. Hope you will improve. I would advise you not to reduce any more for a month at least.

Meanwhile, see that you get from 250 to 350 C's of protein every day. A green salad of green vegetables twice a day and some greens besides this, some whole wheat bread and some skim milk should be included in your diet.

P. S.—You'll explain to your friends who are so anxious about you that you disobeyed instructions, won't you?

Mrs. E.—Babies will apparently thrive on sweetened condensed milk. That is, they will get fat. But sweetened condensed milk is altogether too high in sugar and too low in protein, fat and vitamins. The fact that your baby has eczema shows that her food is not agreeing with her. Because sweetened condensed milk does not have sufficient of the necessary elements for proper growth, it is an exceedingly poor food used exclusively.

These milks are used occasionally to tide a baby over when it needs an easily digested food containing a high percentage of energy elements, but they are not to be continued long unless other foods to supply their deficiencies are also given. You should see a baby specialist right away.

Mrs. J.—There are many physicians who believe that a baby should be nursed only every four hours. They say that in their experience they have found the babies have less colic and do better. They will nurse more vigorously when they do nurse and will really get the same amount of milk for the day.

In my experience, I found my babies did better on three-hour periods, but it may be possible that I did not try the four-hour periods long enough. With the many babies I took care of in the Florence Crittenton Home in Los Angeles, I found those that were on the four-hour feeding periods cried so much that they did not gain so well. But, as I say, I might not have tried it long enough.

For your diet you should include from a pint to a quart of milk a day, whole wheat bread, nuts, green vegetables, and some fruit. Do not eat any white bread or pastries or candy. As you are fifteen pounds overweight, you ought to eat a little less than your needs and gradually reduce. Lean meat and fish or cottage cheese and eggs should be included in your diet, for protein.

You had better send the self-addressed, stamped envelope and 4 cents in stamps for our instructions on reducing. Also ask for the diet during pregnancy and nursing.

EDNA KENT FORBES

A HUSBAND'S LETTER

I have had the following letter in my possession a long time, and have decided to print it to show my Women Readers the point of view of one husband.

"Subscriber" writes:

"You wonder what a man would say on the question of having his wife stay young and attractive and a good comrade."

"My wife, though an excellent housekeeper, keeping the home scrupulously clean and tidy, a good table, and so forth, has not the knack of dressing attractively nor of being entertaining."

"I think that means a whole lot in the happiness of marriage."

"Thinking to arouse interest and thought of appearance, I procured a book on the subject of Personality of Dress, but it was laid away on the shelf; to discuss the matter is to be dismissed with a shrug and a pout, to talk of exercise evokes no response."

"The lack of interest, of indifference to appearances may be better understood if I illustrate."

"Last New Year's Eve an invitation was received to a supper and dance at a club located in the city. Arrangements were made to attend and I expected and hoped my wife would wear a pretty evening gown which I had given her, and which suited her build and color, and had only been worn once. Imagine my feelings on seeing another gown laid out which was not so suitable. On expressing a wish that the pretty gown be worn, excuse was made that she did not think any evening gowns would be seen."

"This may seem like foolish male notions, but on impulse I have decided to express an opinion, as I wonder how many women fail to use and improve their charm and attractiveness by a little exercise, care and thought in dressing."

What do the Woman Readers think? This letter interested me because a great many of my masculine correspondents think their wives spend too much thought and time on dressing!

American Nurse.—To color light eyebrows you can use a stain made by steeping walnut shells in boiling water until the water turns a deep shade of brown, after which add a tablespoonful of salt to set the color. Apply this liquid with a fine camel's hair brush, taking care not to touch the skin, as this, too, will take up the stain. Such applications will have to be repeated as often as there is need, but the stain is preferable to using a hair dye, as it will not injure the hair.

Annie L. S.—Use a cream or olive oil for nourishing the tissues. Cocoa butter should never be used on the face or throat.

Hopful.—Have a dermatologist remove the mole, including the hair, and you will be quite safe in having it done.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHEN SHE MET HIS WIFE

A friend of mine who stayed in town with her husband last summer while most of the other wives in the neighborhood were off in the country with the children, thought she had as recompense the enjoyment of a mild affair with one of her husband's business friends.

His wife was one of those who were away with the children, and he was delighted to accept his friend's hospitality and to show his appreciation in return hospitalities and in gifts of flowers and books and fruit and all the little attentions dear to a woman's heart.

That Disagreeable Wife!

I never happened to meet the man in question, but I had an enthusiastic picture of him painted by my friend. So interesting! Such delightful manners! Such a fine taste in reading, and such a lovely voice when he read aloud! And so thoughtful always for a woman's comfort, and such a happy disposition! Too bad he had such a disagreeable wife.

I thought you hadn't met his wife. I put in at this point.

"I haven't, but I can tell from the things he says. I don't mean that he says anything out and out against her, but you can tell from little things, you know."

I didn't know, but I could imagine the general character of the little things. We all know how a clever man can give an impression that he is misunderstood and misinterpreted, without saying anything absolutely unforfeitable.

Now, as it happens, I did not see this friend all winter. This spring I met her again and asked if she still saw Mr. M.

"Yes, now and then," she said. "It was immediately evident from the flatness of her tone that something had happened. It had. She had met his wife. It all came out presently."

Her Eyes Are Opened

"We were thrown together in the work on that bazaar. I was prepared not to like her, but I couldn't help it. She is just sweet. None of the things he made me think at all. And when she speaks of him she speaks so nicely. And I've met a lot of people who know them both and they like her much better than him. He made me think she was mean. They say he is terribly extravagant and she has to keep after him to see that the bills are paid instead of his spending money in all sorts of ways."

TUJUNGA

SHOW FOR LEGION
IS BIG SUCCESS

Hundreds of People Visit
Green Verdugo Hills to See Varied Acts

In the neighborhood of a thousand people motored to Tujunga Monday night to witness the 'Chauve Souris,' an adaptation of a Russian play by the Mission players. In all it was estimated that nearly 1400 attended this annual show given by Mr. and Mrs. McGroarty for benefit purposes. This year the American Legion, Post 250, gets seventy per cent of the proceeds to apply on the purchase of Bolton hall, their club rooms.

The outdoor pavilion under the great oaks was packed by 8 o'clock and the performance got under way promptly at 8:15. The evening was a perfect spring example of the Verdugo Hills, with just enough crispness to make a top coat and a light fur enjoyable. The pavilion was enclosed at the sides with canvas curtains, preventing any stray drafts from chilling the audience or the players' spirits.

This year's show was the biggest that Mrs. McGroarty has ever attempted in Tujunga. Everything from the sublime to the ridiculous, opera, dancing, dramatic recitations and black face minstrelsy was on the program for the enjoyment of the large audience, with practically the entire cast of the Mission Play. Each member contributed generously to the program, some appearing several times in different acts. They danced and sang and had a great time themselves entertaining for the benefit of the ex-soldiers.

Well Disguised
Catherine Snyder, well known in the Verdugo Hills, appeared in several acts. In her first appearance, with the minstrels, she was so well disguised that even her friends did not discover her until she was announced for a song by the interlocutor. Huge white rimmed spectacles, white trousers and dark coat and a pound or so of burnt cork made her look like anything but the Catherine Snyder that her friends know.

Joseph M. Cox, stage director of the Mission Play, was the announcer and 'filled in,' as he called it, between acts, filling in being a specialty he had learned several years ago with the Los Angeles Gas company in the ditch department. His sallies caused many a laugh during the evening.

The program, as announced by Mr. Cox, follows: The Mission Play quartette sang, as the first number, a melody poem, written by Mr. McGroarty. The quartet is composed of Messrs. Wm. Maginetti, Wilfred Pollard, Lester Reese and S. M. Dickinson, well known to those who have witnessed the Mission Play.

Then came the parade of the wooden soldiers, under the direction of David Costello. Monroe Salisbury gave a dramatic recitation, 'The Little House by the Side of the Road.'

This was followed by the black faced minstrels, in a bit of nonsense, song and dance, by Senor S. Nuno. Both of these gentlemen are graduates of the Mexico National Conservatory of Music.

'Memories,' a fantasy by Mr. McGroarty, was presented by Monroe Salisbury, Patia Powers and Clarence Arper. It dealt with the reminiscences of an old man, presumably about the time that the Mission Play has been running for fifty years, and Mr. Arper and Mrs. Powers danced the minut as they remembered dancing it at the opening night of the Play, fifty years before.

This satirical dance was very beautiful there under the great oaks that form the natural canopy over the stage setting.

Other Musical Numbers
Followed 'Los Gatos,' a musical number, the scene located in a Gypsy camp. 'Spanish Nightingales' sang next, Myranna Richards, Catherine Snyder, Luz Munoz and Roumalla Ena.

Monroe Salisbury and Patia Powers presented the balcony scene from 'Romeo and Juliet,' followed by impersonations of old-time favorites. Julia Ruiz was Carmenita, Roumalla Ena was Calve, Salvador Nuno impersonated Beethoven and played a piano solo. Myranna Richards was Jenny Lind.

Mrs. Powers gave a reading and this was followed by 'Lucia De Lammermoor,' sextette and chorus, directed by C. M. Pike, musical director of the Mission Play.

The technical staff in charge of the stage for this program was: Thomas Pinkley, Master mechanic; Theodore Vejar, master of properties and decorations; Robert Burgess, Chief electrician; Fred E. Grayson, stage manager and Mrs. Costello, costumes.

On Extended Trip
Mrs. Leo L. Lang and her mother, Mrs. Moffat, left last week for an extended trip that will include Portland, Seattle and many other northern cities. They will proceed to Coopers-town, North Dakota, their former home, where they will spend most of the three months that they expect to be gone.

O. L. Hancock has sold his business property at the corner of Michigan and Marshall, occupied by the Tujunga Garage and Service station, to C. C. Hamilton and F. L. Home, the occupants. The lot is 87x104 feet and there is a dwelling on the rear of the lot in addition to the garage and service station fronting on the boulevard.

BURBANK

PLAN TO SECURE
U. S. SUB-CHASER

Burbank Men May Form
Yacht Club; Work at Turkey Crossing

It begins to look as though Burbank would have a yacht club! F. Curt Miller, who is back of the movement, plans to secure one of the government subchasers now lying at anchor in San Pedro harbor.

With Mr. Miller in the movement are F. S. Webster, W. L. Ray, Elmer Dale, A. J. Johnson, J. C. Isbell, C. P. Phelps, B. Fisher, Fred Beckner, A. R. Tupper, Dr. Yale and H. W. Lewis.

The plan is to establish headquarters either at San Pedro, Redondo or Newport, and to purchase one of these boats from Uncle Sam. They are said to be very speedy craft, capable of making twenty-five knots an hour. They have a beam of twenty feet and a length of sixty-five feet, come equipped with Diesel-type oil-burning engines and are capable of making trans-Atlantic trips.

They are said to be capable of remodeling into very natty yachts, and it is felt that a Burbank yacht club would be a great advertisement to this city, all up and down the coast.

Work at Turkey Crossing
Approximately $35,000 is to be spent by Los Angeles county in remodeling of West San Fernando boulevard a good highway. Work is now under way, to the great gratification of every citizen in Burbank, for this road has been in sore need of repair for a long time, according to residents of the city.

Work will continue from Turkey Crossing to the city limits, a distance of about a mile and a quarter. The new paving will be of five-inch concrete, on top of the present paving, and twenty-two feet wide.

Road machinery is now at work, a cement plant has been installed, and things are beginning to get under full swing. The Oswald company, to whom the county awarded the contract several months ago, state that delay in beginning the repairs was occasioned by the fact that they were on another job and had to finish in order to make available the necessary machinery and equipment.

Protected Investment company which is contemplating organizing a local branch, has purchased several lots in the Hillhaven tract. Mr. Philpot, manager of the Army and Navy stores of Los Angeles, had lumber delivered on his property in Blanchard Canyon Sunday for the building of a mountain home there.

Miss King, of the Union Oil Company of Los Angeles, and Miss Alma Echoenian were visitors at the Casa de los Amigos in Tujunga recently. Miss Schoenian had not visited Tujunga for some time and remarked the wonderful growth and improvement that has taken place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rugg, Horace Rugg and small son, Walter, and Mrs. Hale also visited the Superior department store in Los Angeles and finds this section taxing his rural delivery system more and more as the population increases.

Oil May Make Alaska
Into Summer Resort

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—A rival to California oil fields is seen in Alaska, according to Louis Margules, Seward hotel man.

"Two of the biggest companies in the United States, the Standard and Associated, have started drilling for oil just west of Seward," Margules said when he recently. "Indications are that there is a lake of oil under southeastern Alaska. Should a gusher be brought in in that territory there undoubtedly will be another rush to Alaska, which will eclipse the old gold rush days."

"As it is, with completion of the new government railroad from Seward to Fairbanks, southeastern Alaska is rapidly forging ahead. So great is the number of tourists during the summer months that another steamer will be added to the service this year."

"Within a year or two I expect to see Alaska become a summer playground. We soon will have to lay out golf links and install all the other modern attractions of a summer resort."

"With the railroads completed, Alaska will be able to compete with the Alps for entertainment, and so far as scenery is concerned, there is no country in the world that can offer so much as our famous peninsula, about which little is known to the residents of the States."

Sub-Chaser Assigned
To Michigan City, Ind.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., May 24.—Indiana will soon have a navy, according to Ensign L. D. Rosemark, of the local unit of the United States Naval Reserve. The "navy" will consist of the submarine chaser 419, which has been assigned to the Michigan City reserve unit and will be stationed in the local harbor. The craft will be used in training members of the unit and in summer cruises. It is said to be the first fighting ship that ever claimed an Indiana city as its home port.

Remove Dangerous Tree
The large pepper tree that long stood at the corner of Providencia avenue and Fourth street stands there no longer, but has been converted into kindling wood, the reason being that the coroner's jury over the inquest into the death of Mrs. Julia A. Thompson, on May 15, concluded that this tree was partially responsible for the fatal accident.

It was disclosed that this tree was so located as to obstruct the view of approaching cars until almost the last moment. Now that the corner has been cleared up, it is believed that in future the danger of accidents at this crossing will be materially lessened.

EAGLE ROCK

C. OF C. DIRECTORS
ARE ANNOUNCED

Twelve Men Are Decided Upon to Direct Organization at Eagle Rock

The final count and check of ballots in the election for directors of the reorganized Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce disclosed that the following twelve men have been chosen by their fellow members:

O. J. Root, Godfrey Edwards, John G. Caddell, J. Hartley Taylor, Dr. John C. Shedd, John T. Bailey, Earle M. Daniels, Dr. H. B. Crawford, Sherrill B. Osborne, Fred E. Bilgud, Judge G. W. Craig and C. W. Young.

The new board of directors will hold their first meeting tomorrow night, Friday, May 25, at the city hall auditorium, at 8 o'clock, and will thenceforth meet once a week. "All meetings of the Chamber of Commerce will be open to the public," states Ben Schouboe, campaign organizer. "It is very important that the public should realize this. Board, committee and members' forum meetings are all open, and the public is urged to attend whenever possible, and see for themselves what is being done for the good of their section."

"The old idea that a chamber was to serve the individual member and then the community has been supplanted by a more worthy ideal, that of community service first and individual service second."

Several important tasks will confront Eagle Rock's directors of the reorganized Chamber of Commerce, at their meeting tomorrow night. The first step will be to elect from among them a president, two vice-presidents, a treasurer and an executive secretary.

Another step will be the final choice of a paid secretary to conduct the routine business of the organization. Two very good candidates are said to be under consideration and the secretary chosen will probably be one of these.

Reports of the election committee will be heard, after which the finances collected in the recent drive will be turned over to the directors by the Standard Organization Service, of which Mr. Schouboe is one of the members.

In this connection a report will be read showing that memberships to date total 326, with every indication pointing to 350 by June 15. The service fund stands at $2000, it will be brought out.

Among other matters to be discussed at Friday night's meeting are a program of work, as suggested in the "Write It Down" sheets, and the planning of the various committees that will function within the body.

The city planning committee will be the most important of these, acting as the key committee to the whole organization, functioning in an executive way, whereas the board of directors function rather in a judicial capacity.

"The city planning committee will act as a general clearing house," explains H. B. Pier, of the Standard Organization Service. "In this committee the chaff will be sifted out, the details threshed over thoroughly, with

URGES EDUCATION TO FIGHT DRUGS

Richmond Pearson Hobson
Talks to Teachers in War on Narcotics

Richmond Pearson Hobson addressed about fifty local teachers in the high school auditorium on behalf of the Anti-Narcotic Association.

Education is the only way to combat the increasing use of narcotics, according to Captain Hobson, who characterized it as a "social menace." He expressed his opinion that a very satisfactory drug could be produced from the venom of a cobra, but said that this would have no market because the human race has been educated to have an inherent dread for snakes.

The impossibility of regulating the sale and transportation of drugs by laws was emphasized. Captain Hobson called attention to the fact that one airplane could carry enough "dope" from Mexico to supply this whole district for an entire season. He added that an addict could carry enough in his vest pocket to last for months. Dope now costs peddlars about $1 an ounce and is sold by them for $1 a grain, or about $480 an ounce. Captain Hobson stated that addicts soon found themselves obliged to perform the criminal wishes of the "dope trust."

Some 22,000,000 pounds of carbon black made from natural gas is used in the United States every year in the production of automobile tires.

the result that only well milled propositions will be brought before the board of directors."

From which it appears that the appointment of members to this committee is one of the most important tasks before the board.

Local Notes
Walter B. Brown has sold his beautiful home at 272 North Hartwick street and has removed to Los Angeles, where he is entering upon an extensive program of bungalow construction.

Mrs. A. G. Rely, Mrs. Boyce and Mrs. Jones are considering the formation in Eagle Rock of a Reading Circle similar to the one in Glendale. They hope that such an organization will be sponsored by the women's club and the Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. A. A. House, entertained over the week-end Mrs. Loring and her daughter, Miss Lavenia Loring, of Hollywood. Miss Loring is a member of the First Congregational church choir, of Los Angeles, and took part in the concert held in Eagle Rock, May 18, under the direction of John Smallman.

"Dahlias may be planted until June 5," says Mrs. C. W. Young, of 906 Rock Glen, who last year grew the largest and finest dahlia in Eagle Rock.

Invite Bachelors to Spinsters' Convention

BRUSSELS, May 24.—A world-wide invitation to bachelors to attend their annual Whitsuntide Festival was issued recently by the Spinsters' club of Ecaussines-Lalaing, a little town twenty-five miles from Brussels.

Incidentally, the invitation contains a broad hint that only bachelors whose thoughts are turning toward matrimony are desired. This remarkable Club of Ecaussines-Lalaing was founded about twenty years ago by Belgian girls and women who were beginning to lose hope of any successes in the marriage market by the ordinary means, and since then its Whitsuntide marriage fair has only been interrupted during the years of the World war.

The program at the festival is practically the same every year. It comprises an official reception of the visiting bachelors at the Town Hall, where the wife-seekers sign their names in the olden Book of the Club; a tea party or feast in the open air, at which ample opportunities for making acquaintances are given; an address by the president of the club, who, by the way, is the principal candidate for matrimony, and dancing, music and other amusements in the evening.

The president is the girl who is generally considered to be the best looking of the town, and a new president is elected every year. This annual rally, which brings thousands of visitors to the town

TODAY—China sends girl athletes to participate in Olympic games first time in history, writes Edna Lee Booker, Shanghai correspondent.

TOMORROW—Roland Krebs tells of three exceedingly distinctive restaurants in Chicago.

SHANGHAI, May 24.—For the first time in history Chinese girls, who for centuries have lived behind the dragon walls of their homes and swayed and minced through their gardens on their golden lilies, are going to take part in the Far Eastern Olympic games.

An all-star volleyball and tennis team sailed from Shanghai May 13 for Tokyo to compete in the Olympic games May 22. In various large educational centers in China study school girls held tryouts in which selections were made by China's representative in the contest.

The volleyball team is made up of strong players from various schools, while the tennis team of six is composed of the best girl tennis sharks in China. Keen interest was taken by educational leaders in the departure of twenty-two picked girl athletes, for it marked a very advanced step in the development of the women of China.

Miss Vera Barger, head of the Young Women's Christian Association Normal School of Physical Education and Hygiene, believes that the Chinese girls will carry off many of the honors of the contest.

The Chinese girls are keen about volleyball. Of all the American games, volleyball has been brought into China, volleyball is the most popular. In middie blouse and bloomers the graceful school girls, who as enthusiastic over the game as any group of American co-eds, did their best to win places on the chosen team.

In Shanghai eight schools, mission and government, held tryouts. Three afternoons a week the teams from the schools are playing match games.

The institutions entering from Shanghai are the Mary Farnham school, the Wu Kiang school, the Bridgman school, the Ming Lih high school, the Normal School of Physical Education and Hygiene, the Chinese Physical Training School, the Ai Koh School for Girls and the Liang Kiang school.

Hong Kong is sending a number of tennis players to compete with the girls from Peking and Shanghai, while Canton is sending a volleyball team which is reported to be very fast.

The interest of Chinese girls in athletics has developed during the last few years, and the progress the girls have made is remarkable.

In 1902 the famous empress dowager of China, wishing to curtsy favor with the foreign women in Peking, issued an anti-foot-binding edict. It is during the last twenty-one years that the girls of China have learned to run and skip and play.

The girls from China will be chaperoned to Japan by Miss Barger, who believes that the modern girls of fair Cathay will hold their own with the girls of Japan and the Philippines.

RADIO

BY FRANK CHAPMAN

A COURSE IN RADIO—CHAPTER 7. PRIMARY CELL

SERIES—12 VOLTS, 30 AMP

PARALLEL—1/2 VOLTS, 240 AMP

SERIES PARALLEL 6 VOLTS, 60 AMP

There are two types of primary cell, the dry and wet. A simple form of wet cell is known as the Leclanche, consisting of a glass jar, small earthenware jar, carbon and zinc rods and two solutions, one being sal ammoniac and the other a mixture of broken gas carbon and manganese peroxide. The porous earthenware jar contains the former solution and the glass jar (outer one) contains the sal ammoniac and zinc rod. The function of the earthenware jar is to prevent the formation of hydrogen gas on the carbon rod from stopping the current. This type of cell gives about a volt and a half and is frequently used on door bells and other intermittent work and will last for about a year, when the solution and zinc must be renewed.

Dry cells (often termed batteries) are important in that they are "dry" and can be handled without danger of spilling their contents and are used in flashlights and for ignition purposes and in radio for B batteries. They are a modified form of Leclanche cell in that they contain zinc and carbon and have an electrolyte of sal ammoniac. They are usually contained in a zinc cylinder, which forms the negative element, the positive element being the carbon rod which is in the center of the zinc, but insulated from it. Around and between the carbon and zinc is a mixture of carbon, coke, manganese dioxide and sal ammoniac. The sal ammoniac forms a paste with the other ingredients. To prevent evaporation, the top of the cell is usually covered with pitch.

When the word battery is used it should refer to a number of cells whether they are of the primary or secondary type. We usually refer to a storage "battery" as there are three cells in the tray.

We will now consider the method of connecting dry cells together. The way they are connected usually depends on the work they are to do and the amount of voltage or current required. Each dry cell will deliver one and one-half volts, no matter what its size, but the current it will deliver depends on its size. In other words, a dry cell as large as your finger will deliver as much voltage as one as big as a man's body, but the current from the little one will not last long, while the larger one will last a long time, or until the active material is consumed. So, if you had eight dry cells, you get any one of the following combinations of voltage and current, depending on which way they are connected. If each cell would deliver thirty amperes and one and one-half volts, series twelve volts and thirty amperes, parallel one and one-half volts and 240 amperes, series parallel six volts and sixty amperes, the product of any two will equal 360 watts.

The drawings show how cells are connected in series, parallel and series parallel. The series connection is used where you require a high voltage but very little current, the parallel one where the current consumption is high but a high voltage is not needed, while the combination of both connections is used where you need a moderately high voltage and long-life of the battery. If you desire cells to last a long time, such as for doorbell work, you first connect enough in series to ring the bell and then other combinations are placed in parallel to them. If you have a doorbell which is connected in series, you will have one group opposing the other and they will either run down or no current will flow at all. In connecting in series the carbons of one cell are connected to the zinc of the next, and so on, while for parallel connection all the carbons are connected together and all the zincs, which would make the latter one big cell. When connecting in series parallel, we should have an equal amount of cells in each bank. The voltage of such a battery would be the voltage of one cell, times the number of cells in series in one bank, and the amperage equals that of one cell times the number of banks.

Work is defined as the overcoming of force or resistance through a distance. If a ten-pound weight is carried up a ladder, work is done in overcoming the force of gravity. The unit of mechanical work is the foot-pound. A horsepower is that power necessary to raise 33,000 pounds one foot in a minute. The unit of electrical power is the watt and is that current flowing through a circuit whose resistance is one ohm when the pressure is one volt. To find the power consumed in a circuit it is necessary to take the product of amperes and volts. There are 1,000 watts in a kilowatt. A kilowatt hour is 1,000 watts for an hour, or 250 watts for four hours. Take your ordinary tungsten lamp drawing forty watts; it will have to burn twenty-five hours to consume one kilowatt hour.

Electric light companies sell power at so much per kilowatt hour. To ascertain what certain equipment will cost to run a length of time multiply the current, times the volts, divided by 1,000, times the number of hours, times the price per kilowatt hour. Example: 110 volts, five amperes, four hours and 8 cents per K. W. H. We find the following: 110 5x=4x8c equals 17 3-5 cents. 1,000

Megohm
Some substances conduct electricity so poorly that they are known as insulators. Both a piece of glass and a copper wire will conduct electricity, but there is a vast difference in the amount. As far as their conductivity is concerned, we might compare them to a pipe the size of a pin and one the size of a sewer. This is where we consider the megohm. We use the old term of ohm but prefix the meg to it, which means millions. In other words, it is one million ohms. This unit is used for measuring very high resistances, grid leaks, for instance.

Pointers
In tuning in stations on a regenerative set you must first pick up the carrier note, but if you tune slowly you will strike a quiet spot where voice or music will be heard. Most of the squealing you hear in your set is due from overregeneration. If your tube is oscillating you cannot get intelligible signals over radiophone. Audions of the same make require different plate voltages for best operation, so experiment.

SIGNED BY GOVERNOR
SACRAMENTO, May 24.—Five bills, two of them forest fire protection measures, were signed by Governor Richardson. The two fire prevention bills provide for the formation of fire protection districts and the appointment of a state fire marshal. The fire marshal bill, A. B. 409, was backed by virtually all of the fire chiefs of the state.

SEEKS DAUGHTER
SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—Mrs. William M. Muir, 1826 East Second street, Los Angeles, arrived here yesterday and sought the aid of the police in finding her 15-year-old daughter, Dorcas. Her daughter came here ten days ago in company with another girl, the mother said, and wrote she had obtained work here.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BAD BOYS
Uncle Wiggily Longears, the bunny rabbit gentleman, was hopping through the woods one day, looking for an adventure, when, all of a sudden, he heard a voice say:

"I think something is going to happen."

"That's what I think," spoke another voice. "And I think I'm going to be bad!"

"Isn't that funny—I feel the same way!" exclaimed the voice which had first spoken.

"Gracious goodness me sakes alive, and some peanut pudding!" thought Mr. Longears. "Can this be the Fuzzy Fox or the Woolly Wolf who are going to be so bad as to nibble my ears, I wonder?"

The bunny gentleman was about to hop away as fast as he could when there was a rustling sound in the bushes and out popped, not the Fuzzy Fox or Wolf, but two little animal boys—Bully No Tail, the frog, and Jackie Bow Wow, the pup.

"Oh, hello, boys!" cried Uncle Wiggily in his most jolly voice, for he was no longer afraid.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily," creaked Bully, while Jackie barked his delight, and then the frog boy said: "You must excuse us, Uncle Wiggily, but we have to hurry to school so we won't be late!"

"That's right, don't be late," agreed Mr. Longears, as he watched Bully hop and Jackie run along the woodland path. "And, as I have nothing special to do," he whispered Uncle Wiggily to himself, "I'll hop to the Hollow Stump school and see what Jackie and Bully meant about saying that they were going to be bad and have something happen."

No sooner said than done, Uncle Wiggily hopped along under the trees to the place where the Lady Mouse Teacher heard lessons in the Hollow Stump school.

Now it happened just as Bully and Jackie had said it might. The little animal boys felt very jolly and cut up like that day, and when the Lady Mouse went into the next room to get some new pieces of chalk, all at once Bully, the frog, left his seat and stood on his head out in the middle of the room. This made all the other pupils laugh, of course.

Then Jackie Bow Wow took his long thin, tin bean blower from his desk and began blowing hard, and then the frog boy, the frog, left his seat and stood on his head out in the middle of the room. This made all the other pupils laugh, of course.

Then Jackie Bow Wow took his long thin, tin bean blower from his desk and began blowing hard, and then the frog boy, the frog, left his seat and stood on his head out in the middle of the room. This made all the other pupils laugh, of course.

Oh how still and quiet it was then! But too late! The Lady Mouse had seen what happened.

"Bully No Tail," she spoke in a gentle voice, "since you are so fond of standing on your head you may do it in one of the corners of the room until you get tired. Stand on your head in the corner, Bully, if you please." And Bully, growing very red behind his ears, shuffled up and stood on his head in the corner.

"And, Jackie Bow Wow," went on the Lady Mouse teacher, "since you are so fond of blowing beans about the room, you may stand on your hind legs in the other corner and hold your bean blower." There was no help for it—and Jackie marched to his corner, his tail between his legs. And the other animal children hardly laughed at all when they saw Bully standing on his head and Jackie on his hind paws, each in opposite corners of the school room.

Then the door opened and in came Uncle Wiggily.

"Ah, ha!" exclaimed the bunny gentleman. "I feared this was going to happen. So the boys were bad, were they, Lady Mouse?"

"Just a little bad," said the teacher sadly.

And then, all of a sudden, Bully the Frog gave a flop and stood up right on his legs, properly.

"Oh, teacher!" he croaked, "as I stood on my head I could look out through the window up at the clouds, and the Bob Cat is hiding there, ready to jump down on me. Uncle Wiggily when he hops out. Oh, Lady Mouse teacher, what shall we do?"

"Quick, Jackie!" squeaked the Lady Mouse. "You take your bean blower and pepper the Bob Cat. As long as you have the bean and the blower make some good use of them, and thank you, Bully, for letting us know about the Bob Cat in the tree."

Then Jackie, taking careful aim, sent a shower of hard beans, like and Bully came from their corners and forgave them. I wish I could say they were never bad again, but I can't—for they were. But, if the umbrella doesn't turn inside out when it sees the cabbage stand on its head, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Nellie's jiggles.

Dinner Stories

President Ray Lyman Wilbur of Stanford University writes:

"One of the stories that has intrigued my interest, particularly because of its application to every-day experience with students and others, is that of the little boy who was standing near his parents before a moving picture theatre and crying vigorously."

A kindly and sympathetic old gentleman noting his active dejection asked him what he was crying about.

"The answer was: 'I want pa and ma to take me to the moving picture show.'"

"Do your father and mother usually take you to a moving picture show if you cry?"

"Sometimes they do and sometimes they don't, but it ain't any trouble for me to cry."

Canadian Society to Be Formed Tonight

A Canadian get-together society or club is to be organized tonight at 8 o'clock at the Porter auction room, 406 South Brand.

The organizers say that in this instance "Canadian" means anyone that has ever lived in Canada. The purpose of the organization is purely social and the club intends to keep in closer touch with events in the north as well as renewing and making acquaintance with former residents of the Canadian provinces.

Regular meetings will be held and anyone interested is urged to become a charter member by attending tonight's meeting.

WORCESTER, Mass., May 24.—Because he forced his wife to sleep in a barn while he reposed in bed during a noisy celebration he is alleged to have conducted in his native town of Millbury, John Savinola was fined $10 when arraigned in the Central Court here. He was charged with disturbing the peace.

SENTENCED TO DIE

PHOENIX, April 24.—Manuel Martinez, Mexican bandit and "bad man," was sentenced to die on the gallows Friday morning for the murder of Postmaster Frank Pearson and his wife at Ruby, Ariz., in 1921, after the state board of parole declined to recommend to Governor Hunt that his sentence be commuted. The board notified the governor of its finding after a final hearing.

MILK IN BROWN BOTTLES

Does the milkman—habitually or even sometimes—deliver your milk in brown or amber-colored bottles? If so, make him stop it. Insist that the bottles be of plain glass.

There is a reason why, and it is of no small importance.

A brown-colored or brown bottles are commonly used by milk-handlers to hold buttermilk. This is in order that the bottles containing buttermilk may be readily distinguishable by the milkmen and by waiters in eating places. A customer for whole fresh milk who was served with buttermilk would not like it.

But sometimes it happens that through carelessness the brown bottles are used as containers for whole milk. The practice is objectionable. Such bottles cause milk to sour more rapidly.

Seems odd, does it not? But the fact has been proved by recent investigations at the Iowa State college, in the dairy department, of that educational institution.

Bottles of milk are commonly left by the milkman on doorsteps and porches, where they are liable to be exposed to the sun for a while before they are taken in. Brown or amber-colored bottles are much more absorbent of heat than bottles made of clear glass. So markedly is this the case that their contents acquire a temperature from three to five degrees higher.

The warmer the milk the more rapidly do the bacteria contained in it multiply—particularly the bacteria which make lactic acid. It is the lactic acid bacteria that turns milk sour. Hence (as proved by the studies at the Iowa State college) milk in brown bottles ceases to be sweet much sooner than in clear glass bottles.

Another thing to be considered is that the chemical rays in daylight have a tendency to discourage the breeding of bacteria. Clear glass admits those rays freely.

Does the Bottom of the Bottle Show Dirty Sediment

Shuts out more of them out.

The brown glass is further objectionable for the reason that it conceals sediment or dirt in the bottle of milk; and also because it hides the cream line, which is the best index of quality and of prime importance to the consumer.

Perfectly clean milk is practically an impossibility. Some dirt, from the stable or the cow, is bound to get into it. It makes a first-rate starter for bacterial growth, which, in a medium highly suitable as food for "germs," proceeds with great rapidity. Hence it is desirable to give them as little encouragement as possible.

SIX STUDENTS HURT

LONG BEACH, Calif., May 24.—Six students were injured, two seriously here late yesterday when a huge temporary platform collapsed at the Long Beach polytechnic high school while 1,000 boys were standing on it.

The two boys most seriously hurt were: Bernard Weldo, cuts about the body, and Ed Millett, right leg badly lacerated and serious cuts and bruises about the body.

FIFTY YEARS AGO AND TODAY

THE principal difference between the home of fifty years ago and the modern one is PLUMBING. That is because, in development of ideas, in improvement of construction and in modernization of utility, no building trade industry has made the strides that plumbing has.

In line with this development, is the present personnel of the industry. What was once a comparatively obscure trade, is now a tremendous business, composed of men of the highest caliber. Therein lies the inspiration which created the Sanitary Development League.

To-day, the man who builds a home selects his own plumbing. In doing so, he uses his individual taste and at the same time saves a substantial sum, which would otherwise go to a builder or contractor. He adds this saving to the purchase price and buys better plumbing.

Be sure your plumber is a member of the Sanitary Development League of Southern California. It is composed of the highest type of successful business men. They will give you a square deal.

LOCAL REALTORS MAY RAISE DUES

Special Meeting Will Be Held in Two Weeks to Vote on Increase

A resolution was adopted at yesterday's noon luncheon of the Glendale Realty Board, held in the Harriett Mae tea rooms, calling for a special meeting two weeks from Wednesday, or June 6, to consider an amendment to the constitution making it possible to raise annual dues in the board to $60 and annual associate membership to $10.

Thomas W. Watson, of the finance committee, read a report of the anticipated budget for the coming fiscal year, under the $60 annual membership plan, showing that this sum from each member would create a fund of $5536.70, and that the total expenses would be $2624, leaving an adequate reserve for advertising, special events and other expenses.

It was brought out that this $60 from each member would include all expenses in connection with membership in the Glendale Realty Board, together with subscriptions to the state and national magazines.

Thanks to Tujunga

It was voted that the written thanks of the Glendale Realty Board be extended to the Tujunga Valley Realty Board, for the splendid entertainment tendered at Tujunga, Monday afternoon and night of this week, when 125 Glendale realtors and their families enjoyed a trip through the valley and a visit to the top of Mt. McGroarty, together with a fine meal served by the women, and a delightful evening performance by the San Gabriel Mission Players, in the Garden of the Moon open-air theatre.

It was resolved that there would be no meeting of the board next Wednesday, May 30, this being Decoration Day. In this connection a communication was read from the Decoration Day committee, signed by Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, calling attention to an automobile parade that will start from the corner of Brand boulevard and Colorado street, at 2 o'clock the afternoon of May 30.

The communication urged members of the Glendale Realty Board to join with members of other local organizations in making this 1923 Decoration Day parade an outstanding civic event.

C. of C. Booklet There was read a series of communications between Peter Hanson, chairman of the publicity committee of the Glendale Realty Board, and E. F. Sanders, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, concerning the page on the board's work, to be included in a forthcoming booklet to be published by the chamber.

The communications brought out that H. S. McCormack, publicity director of the Chamber of Commerce, preferred to get the data for this page from the Arrowhead magazine than directly from the Realty Board.

At the suggestion of W. L. Twining, a member of the board and chairman of the advertising committee of the chamber, these communications were turned over to him, with the view that some action might be expected.

MUSIC CLUB TO AID YOUNG FOLK

Scholarship Fund to Help Ambitious Artists Gain Additional Study

In addition to providing a scholarship fund for the Glendale Music Club, the program to be presented tonight in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse will be one of the real music treats of the year for Glendaleans. It is the plan of the club to make this an annual event, to provide a fund to assist an ambitious young artist each year to further study.

This year the club is to assist Miss Hazel Linkogel, promising violinist and member of the Junior Music Club, in going to Chicago to compete for a scholarship in violin under Leopold Auer, master instructor.

Officers of the music club are to receive tonight and members of the Junior Music Club will rehearse.

Artists On Program

Feature artists of the evening will be Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer and musician; Margaret Messer Morris, soprano; Carl Gantvoort, baritone, and Miss Hazel Linkogel, violinist. Miss Linkogel will be accompanied by Henry Grace, also a member of the Junior Music Club.

Additional numbers on the program will be given by the Glendale Union High school orchestra, directed by Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, and the Girls' Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker.

Of interest is the announcement that Mr. Cadman's song, "The Moon Heaven," will be heard for the first time in Glendale tonight. Mr. Cadman's mother will be among those attending the concert from out of town.

Only Survivor of Gen. Custer Massacre

Chief Shuh Shoo Ahish

Chief Shuh Shoo Ahish, of Curley, is the only survivor of the massacre of the famous Seventh Cavalry, under General Custer, on the Little Big Horn, by Indian warriors, under Sitting Bull. Curley was a Crow Indian scout, with the Seventh, but managed to escape by throwing a Sioux blanket over his head and crawling through the Sioux lines. He has recently been awarded a pension by the government, with back pay. He is now dying in Butte, Montana.

OFFICERS REPORT ON CLUB WORK

Facts and Figures Show Organization's Growth In Past Year

Gratifying reports of accomplishment were given at the regular meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club on Tuesday. It was the annual meeting of the organization and reports were heard from the majority of the club officers and chairmen.

Complete reports of some of the officers and chairmen will not be given until the final meeting in June, when the president and curators of all the sections will make their reports.

Among those giving reports Tuesday were Mesdames A. H. Montgomery, G. W. Houston, John C. Dunn, Frank Ayars, M. E. Plaster, Freeman McG. Kelley, Homer Lockwood, W. P. MacMullin, E. U. Emery, W. E. Evans, F. L. Hollingsworth, Colin Cable, H. E. Bartlett, Lillian Dow, William Hunter, John Robert White, J. T. Crampton and J. B. McClellan.

In one or two cases of illness the reports were sent by proxies and other reports not presented will be prepared for the final meeting.

Some of the interesting items mentioned in the reports given were:

That the Literary Section of the club purchased seven chairs in the clubhouse auditorium.

That Mrs. Ella Richardson purchased a whole row of auditorium chairs.

That since the opening of the clubhouse 422 rentals of the clubhouse had been made.

That over 100 copies of The Glendale Evening News containing the accounts of the formal opening of the clubhouse were mailed to clubs in all parts of California and the United States.

That the programs for the year just closed cost $600, leaving a balance of $100 to purchase a picture screen for the auditorium.

That 698 guests have been received by guest cards at the regular meetings of the club.

That a debt of thanks is owed Harry Lockwood, interior decorator, for assisting the furnishing committee.

Legal Gambling Nets Big Income for French

PARIS, May 24. — Legalized gambling netted the French government almost 60,000,000 francs in taxes during the year 1922, according to official statistics just made public.

The 123 casinos in the country were assessed by the state to the actual amount of 59,352,000 francs. In addition the casinos paid 50,516,921 francs in local revenues.

The Nice Casino led with 19,530,000 francs in taxes, followed closely by the Deauville Casino, with 17,000,000 francs.

Monte Carlo's Casino, being located in the free municipality of Monaco, paid nothing to the French government.

British Barber Holds Record for Silence

LONDON, May 24. — William Jones, of Pancras, admits that he can shave 78 men in an hour, and has done it for hours on end, and he modestly claims the world's championship. "Barbers talk too much," says William. "It is apt to make them work slowly, and to annoy many customers."

BRYAN REFUSES TO ADMIT DEFEAT

Presbyterians Decline to Adopt His Resolution; Continues Plea

By LLOYD MELLETT
For International News Service
INDIANAPOLIS, May 24.—The choice between Moses and Darwin has been made, and the result is more of a victory for the latter.

William Jennings Bryan, who knows not defeat—or else knows nothing else but—failed to get the Presbyterian general assembly meeting here to go all the way with him in his fight against the brute hypothesis of the origin of the species, but today refused to admit defeat.

"All great causes make progress through defeats—there is no other road to victory," he said.

A resolution adopted by the assembly declared "Presbyteries or synods of the church should withhold approval of schools which seek to establish a materialistic, evolutionary philosophy of life and disregards or attempts to discredit the Christian faith."

Makes Church History

Bryan's resolution, rejected by a two-to-one vote, was more direct and subject to no evasion or misinterpretation. It declared no part of the educational fund should be paid to any school that teaches or permits to be taught "as a proved fact, either Darwinism or any other evolutionary hypothesis that links man in blood relationship with any other form of life."

The fight over evolution forced by Mr. Bryan culminated in a debate that will be church history. Dr. John Willis Baer, chairman of the assemblies' standing committee on education, led the liberals.

The debate was not confined to these two participants, but was joined in by many of the intellectual lights of the church. The position taken by those opposed to the Bryan resolution was that a belief in evolution and Christianity both was not impossible, and that it was possible to reconcile the two.

As for Bryan, his ardor was not dimmed. He cited the fifty-year fight for women suffrage as exemplifying the struggle it takes to win sometimes.

Two Trains Strike Woman at Same Time

HAMMOND, May 24.—What is worse than being hit by a train at a railroad crossing? Being hit by two trains, is the answer of Jewel Fernandez, who was riding in a taxicab that was struck by two trains at the same time on a crossing in East Chicago. She has filed $10,000 suit for damages in the Superior Court here.

"Bonded Indebtedness of Los Angeles

Limited to $135,000,000."

Why do we issue bonds every time we make a civic improvement? Because there never is cash enough on hand. The Reason? Because the community is not allowed to claim its own rightful wealth; the land values caused by their own coming and settling AND BY NOTHING ELSE.

If municipalities could tax into their public treasuries the land values which are licked up by land profiteers, never a bond would we need when we build fire-stations, schools and city halls. How much cheaper and more direct to pay cash and avoid bonds and cut out interest when we make public improvements, and how many we could afford if we only had the whole profit on land to put into public utilities! And no need of any other kind of taxes at all!

You are cordially invited to hear this fundamental question discussed at the Robinson home, 332 North Maryland Ave., next Sunday afternoon, May 27th at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Harriett D. Prente, of Toronto, will be the leading speaker.

Prelude: Piano solo by Mrs. Vivian R. Webb, and a reading by Elizabeth Webb.
